WALSH TRYING TO ESTABLISH NEW TRADE LAW

Montanan Holds U. S. Should Regulate Sale of Utilities Securities

DEBATE JURISDICTION

Private Interests Hold Regulation in Hands of State Commissions

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington.—Senator Walsh of Montana is endeavoring to justify an inquiry by the senate into the financing of public utility companies has laid down a broad principle for many years to come may be the subject of debate.

The Montana senator concedes that the regulation of companies doing business within a state may be a function of state commissions but argues that the issuance and sale of securities is interstate commerce and that holding companies which own operating corporations are in turn engaged in interstate trade.

The question of jurisdiction is being argued because many of the public utility executives insist that they do not object to an investigation or public regulation, but they see no point in adding federal legislation to a supervisory power already exercised by 48 state commissions.

GIVES NEEDED DATA. Mr. Walsh thinks that the publicity that would be given to the operations of the public utility companies would act as a corrective and furnish the public with information enabling them to demand in some states better regulation by state commissions. He does not object to an investigation or public regulation, but they see no point in adding federal legislation to a supervisory power already exercised by 48 state commissions.

FEARS EFFECT ON SECURITIES. The utility representatives have pointed out that a general political investigation might depress the value of good utility securities. The attention of Senator Walsh was directed to this but he told the senate committee that he believed that "anyone holding securities with actual, real values back of them need not have much fear about disastrous results of investigations by reason of such investigation, but those people who have been induced to buy securities of doubtful

ANOTHER PLANE IN AIR FOR ENDURANCE RECORD

San Francisco.—(AP)—In her fourth attempt to break the world record for sustained flight by an airplane, the trimotored Fokker monoplane "Spirit of California" Wednesday is circling over northern California. The plane took off here at 8:00 Tuesday morning with weather conditions favorable to the pilots, Captain Charles Kingsford Smith, Australian ace, and Lieut. George R. Bond, U. S. N., slowed down the engines late Tuesday night to conserve the gasoline supply. The propellers registered only 1,529 revolutions per minute.

The plane came within about three hours of breaking the record in a previous attempt. Gasoline shortage forced the fliers to descend and they determined to profit by that experience.

ALLISON ASSISTANT TO LITTLE AT BADGER "U"

Madison.—(AP)—Leonard "Stub" Allison, who came to the University of Wisconsin as coach for the ends of the football team, after resigning as head of the South Dakota University Athletic department, has been made assistant director of athletics under Director George Little. He is expected to take charge of intramural football and other sports next season.

CRITIC IS UNKIND SO LYRIC SINGER COMMITS SUICIDE

New York.—(AP)—Thema Marovska, 30-year-old lyric singer of haunting folk songs, made her debut at a New York theatre last Sunday. It was just another debut to the critics and most of the city, but to Miss Marovska it was the realization of many years of dreams, study and privations.

"Unfortunately," wrote one critic, "Miss Marovska cannot sing. Her sense of pitch is so flagrantly incorrect that it neutralizes her otherwise delightful performance. She should confine herself to the spoken word and the public would be hers." Other reviewers did not even say whether she was good or bad.

Heartbroken, Miss Marovska telephoned Arthur Warner, associate editor of the Nation, who had befriended her in her struggles. He invited her to his Brooklyn apartment and when he arrived home Tuesday night found her body, fully clothed, in the bathtub, a tube attached to an open gas jet, in her mouth.

2 SHERIFFS TAKE STAND FOR PLUMMER

Winnebago-co Sheriff Calls Fond du Lac and Calumet Officers as Witnesses

Oshkosh.—(AP)—Sheriff Walter Plummer Wednesday called two county sheriffs to testify in his defense that he was not unusual that jail trustees were allowed to go unguarded outside of the jail.

The witnesses who testified concerning the charges against Sheriff Plummer, whose office is sought by District Attorney Frank B. Keefe, is that he according to previous treatment, gave them the keys to the jail, took them for airplane rides and permitted them to go outside the jail.

Under cross-examination Droeisch admitted that he never took trustees out to help in making raids or arrests that he never allowed them to go for airplane rides and did not permit them to hold beer parties in the jail.

Sheriff Plummer told that he occasionally allowed short term prisoners, men serving five to ten days to go to the courthouse to mow the lawn unaccompanied by a guard.

Sheriff Plummer told of taking Russell Dowling and Harry Hunter, two prisoners, to the aviation field and of permitting them to return to the jail for additional wraps. However, he denied that the men brought a bottle of liquor as Dowling had previously testified, or that a bottle of liquor was sold or given to the aviators. The sheriff said Dowling was a distant relative.

Hunter gave similar testimony, denying that liquor had been secured at the county jail. He also testified that the sheriff often permitted him to work in the jail yard and on the sheriff's launch. Hunter said that Orville Durko, 14, often accompanied him as a guard.

Miss Evelyn Attie, school teacher, testified that Orville was an average boy but fond of telling adventurous stories and appeared to like to tell of the job given him by the sheriff.

H. R. Reed, chiropractor, said that Geraldine Connors visited his office on several occasions for treatment and each time was accompanied by the sheriff or his mother. Miss Connors as a strict nurse testified that Plummer had made advances toward her while she was in jail, unbecoming an officer.

COOLIDGE MAKES STOP IN FLORIDA ON RETURN

Jacksonville, Fla.—(AP)—Fresh from his triumph in Havana, President Coolidge received a welcome in his own country at Jacksonville Wednesday where he made the only formal stop on his return trip to Washington.

Leaving his train here with Mrs. Coolidge, Secretary Kellogg and Secretary Wilbur, the president made a four-hour automobile tour of the city and was greeted by thousands of cheering and waving American flags in greeting.

Governor Martin of Florida who had come down from Tallahassee for the reception, met Mr. Coolidge as he alighted from his train and introduced a group of prominent city and state officials.

There was one stop during the automobile trip where Mrs. Coolidge received flowers from a delegation of the local women's clubs.

FIND HOME-MADE KNIFE IN MARTY DURKIN'S CELL

Chicago.—(AP)—Martin Durkin, one of the most notorious and picturesque of a long list of Chicago gunmen, was handcuffed to the bars of his penitentiary cell Wednesday, following discovery in his possession of a long knife, fashioned from a file. Durkin is serving a 35-year sentence for murder.

PLAN ARREST IN BLAST IN SCHOOL STOVE

Sheriff Mum About Investigation but Says He Is Running Down Clews

Ellsworth.—(AP)—An arrest in connection with the explosion of a stove at a school 10 miles east of here in District No. 4, resulting in injuries to the teacher, is expected to be made as soon as an investigation is completed, authorities here declared Tuesday night.

Clarence Whitaker, the teacher, was burned, but not seriously, during the explosion, which shattered windows of the schoolhouse while he was building a fire Tuesday morning.

Sheriff Martin Klejstad declared he has not yet determined what had caused the explosion, but he was working on clews which he expects to lead to the arrest of the person responsible for the blast. He declined to make public any details of the investigation thus far.

Whitaker expressed belief that a dynamite cap or other explosives had been placed in the stove. Sheriff Klejstad said he had been unable to find any indications of explosives.

DISSATISFIED WITH TEACHER

According to Whitaker he started the fire with paper, went outside and returned just as the blast occurred. He could give no motive for any attempt to harm him or destroy the building, but residents of the district said there had been some dissatisfaction with his teaching.

At his home a mile from the school, Whitaker said that he now recalls a slight explosion in the stove after he started the fire Monday. He had used kerosene and believed the muffled blast, which caused no damage, was due to this. He now believes it may have been due to a dynamite cap or other explosives placed on the stove.

Dr. J. E. Morton, attending the teacher, said he would recover. This is his second year as teacher in the district.

BORAH FORECASTS PROBE OF POLICY IN NICARAGUA

Washington.—(AP)—An investigation of the Nicaraguan situation will be recommended by the senate foreign relations committee. Chairman Borah forecast Wednesday after the question had been discussed in the committee.

Senator Borah expressed the opinion that action probably would be taken at the next meeting of the committee a week from Wednesday. He was not prepared to say just what would be the scope of the proposed inquiry.

The committee has before it several resolutions including those by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, and Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, calling for thorough-going inquiries not alone into conditions in Nicaragua, but also into the action of the administration in sending American machines to the Latin-American republic, and thereby maintaining what these senators contend is a virtual state of war with at least one faction of the Nicaraguans.

TO FIGHT INJUNCTION AS ANTI-STRIKE WEAPON

Miami, Fla.—(AP)—A determined onslaught against injunctions as strike-breaking agencies, to be waged by organized labor during the present session of congress, will soon have Washington as center of its activities. Such was indicated in announcements made Tuesday by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, here for a meeting of the body's executive council.

Sandino Forces Retire Under Bombing By Planes

Managua, Nicaragua.—(AP)—Harassed by three days of persistent and heavy bombing from marine corps planes, rebel outposts Wednesday fled from the San Albino region, marine headquarters announced. The announcement was made upon the return of airplane patrols from the region where the marines are massing for a drive against the rebel General Augusto Sandino.

A combat patrol also reported there was no evidence in the Quilich district of rebel activity. It was believed that Sandino's forces had retired to El Chipote, which he made his quarters after the marines took Quilich.

With the arrival of Major General John A. Leary, commander of the marines, and Brig. General Logan Ford, and with United States ships daily unloading marine supplies, airplanes and ammunition at

SCHNEIDER OFFERS BILL FOR PURCHASE OF FEDERAL LAND

Washington.—(AP)—Congressman George Schneider, Appleton, has introduced a bill for acquisition by Wisconsin for park purposes of 1,046 acres of picturesque land northwest of Sturgeon Bay along the bay shore. Under the bill, the government would transfer the title of this property to Wisconsin for $125 an acre. This land is now under supervision of the war department and years ago was used as a stone quarry.

BOB ASKS FOR CUT IN RESERVE LOANS

Would Prevent "Future Use of Funds and Credit" for Speculators

Washington.—(AP)—A resolution calling upon the federal reserve board to pare down as rapidly as possible the amount of outstanding loans allowed by member banks on stocks and bonds was introduced in the senate Wednesday by Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin.

The resolution which was referred without debate to the senate banking committee, also would ask the board to report to congress what legislation, if any, is required "to prevent the future use of the funds and credit of the federal reserve system for speculative purposes."

LaFollette declared that the total of these loans had reached the figure of $3,519,573,000 on Jan. 11, an increase of more than $1,000,000,000 during the year. The largest part of this sum, he said, is used for speculation on the New York Stock exchange, and the "inevitable result," he added, "is to restrict the amount of credit available for legitimate commercial purposes."

12 INJURED IN MICHIGAN STEEL MILL EXPLOSION

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.—(AP)—An explosion of a blast furnace of the plant of the Algoma Steel corporation in the Canadian Soo Tuesday caused the injury of 12 workmen and shook both cities, breaking hundreds of windows. The two cities are about three miles apart.

Every available physician and nurse in both cities rushed to the plant and a first aid station set up within the building. Damage caused by the explosion could not be estimated immediately, due to the force of the blast which flattened several nearby frame structures, and caused minor destruction over a large area. Officials of the plant did not reveal the cause of the explosion.

MORE OF QUAKER THAN WESLEYAN, SHAW SAYS

London.—(AP)—What is George Bernard Shaw's religion? Sending a subscription to the restoration fund of John Wesley's chapel in London, he wrote:

"Though an ancient alumnus of Wesley college, Dublin, I am not a Wesleyan, being more of a Quaker although little better than an atheist in the eyes of old-fashioned Wesleyans and Quakers."

CHINESE NATIONALISTS TO NULL UNEQUAL PACTS

Shanghai.—(AP)—The central executive committee of the Kuomintang, or nationalist political organization, announced Wednesday that it intends to undertake immediately a program seeking abrogation "of the unequal treaties" between China and the various nations. The meeting of the committee was held at Nanking.

COULDN'T RESIST FIRING BUILDINGS, "BUG" ADMITS

Washington.—(AP)—An "excusable" reason was given by the police as the latest reason why John J. Fisher, a free of the series that was held throughout the city Tuesday morning. Declaring that Fisher, 28, a former policeman and recently a patient in a hospital, had been shot and killed because he had done so after attacking firemen battling two of the downtown blazes, Fisher was arrested and returned to his home after having spent more than two hours in the local firemen and others surrounded from out of town fight the flames he had caused. He stoutly denied connection with the other major fire.

KILLS MAN AND THEN TURNS GUN ON HIMSELF

Chicago.—(AP)—As he kissed his wife farewell at the door of their home Wednesday, A. G. Wernick, 34, a former workman, was shot and killed by Victor Novak, who then turned the pistol on himself, ending his own life.

COUNTY MUST PROTECT HIM, JUDGE RULES

Change Possible Only in Event He Pleads Not Guilty and Asks Trial

BULLETIN!

Flint, Mich.—(AP)—Adolph Hotelling, slayer of little Dorothy Schneider of Mt. Morris, was sentenced to life imprisonment here Wednesday afternoon by Circuit Judge Fred W. Brennan, upon his plea of guilty to a first degree murder charge.

Flint, Mich.—(AP)—The disposition of the case of Adolph Hotelling, confessed slayer of 5-year-old Dorothy Schneider, suddenly became a matter of mystery Wednesday with the belief growing that he would be returned to Genesee county (Flint) for a circuit court hearing.

Hope of a change of venue so he could plead guilty in another county faded when two Genesee judges declared a transfer could not be granted under the law. They pointed out that the only substantial reason for a change is the contention that the defendant cannot secure a fair trial in the county in which the crime was committed.

Attorney William A. Seegmiller, counsel for Hotelling, announced no change of venue would be sought for his client.

Mrs. Myrtle Hotelling, wife of the confessed slayer, was in a state of collapse in his home in Owosso. Her physician said she broke down Tuesday night when informed her husband had confessed he had attacked two other young girls, both of Owosso, during the last two years.

NO VENUE CHANGE

A change of venue cannot be granted Hotelling, if he intends to plead guilty, Judge Fred W. Brennan of the Genesee circuit court said Wednesday. He asserted it is up to the county to protect the prisoner who, in his belief, must make his plea here. Should Hotelling plead not guilty and demand a trial, a change of venue might then properly be sought, the judge said.

Governor Green was indignant when notified of Judge Brennan's ruling and declared it would be his duty to invite more noting by the prisoner's presence here. He planned to confer with Attorney General W. W. Potter at Lansing Wednesday regarding steps to be taken to prevent this in the future.

If a motion for a change of venue were granted, the executive had planned to have Hotelling brought to court immediately, either at Lansing or Owosso. An agreement was reached Tuesday, whereby attorneys for Hotelling would enter a plea of guilty and accept a life imprisonment penalty—the extreme punishment in Michigan. State alienists, according to Governor Green, would examine Hotelling later and in event they determined he was of unsound mind, an order for his transfer from prison to a state institution for insane would be issued.

Hotelling was taken secretly from the state reformatory at Jonia Tuesday to a place just over the Genesee county line and arraigned before an independent justice court in a farm house. The action required only a few minutes after which the prisoner was escorted back to the reformatory. Hotelling spoke mute and no plea was entered for him.

THREE MURDERED MEN SUSPECTED GANGSTERS

Chicago.—(AP)—Three men believed by the police to be bootleggers or racketeers were found slain in Chicago and that all hands had been saved. H. Alan, 30, Steven, 20, and William, 20, the exact position of the ship and the names of the men who were slain with it, have not been given, but it was reported that the ship was found floating bottom upward.

Soviet Sends Trotzky And Other Party Foes To Exile

The following dispatch, delayed by censorship, is the first direct word from Moscow on the exile of Leon Trotzky and fellow oppositionists removed to the Azov and Przemysl, Poland, on the exile of the opposition leaders, came through Riga and Leningrad.

Moscow.—(AP)—All oppositionists of every shade and character have been ordered to leave Moscow and to proceed to various distant points where they must remain for indefinite periods. In administering punishment, the oppositionists were divided in three groups—the incorrigibles, penitents and non-penitents.

Leon Trotzky, former head of the red army and once outstanding figure in the councils of soviet Russia, was assigned to Przemysl, a small town far north.

Other oppositionists, headed by M. Armand, former secretary of the central executive committee, received more serious punishment. The Sapronoff group were sent to various points in the remotest regions of Siberia.

SENATE VOTES ON SMITH SEAT TODAY

Washington.—(AP)—Senator-elect Frank L. Smith of Illinois, was afforded Wednesday a glaring glimpse of the seat that he may not occupy because his campaign fund included more than $100,000 donated by public utilities officials of his state.

Formal adoption of a special slush fund committee's resolution vacating Smith's seat, was put off until Wednesday by a torrent of oratory that covered no new ground, but brought out increased acrimony.

The debate waged around a dozen senators, who divided largely on the proposition voiced by Senator Leonard Foght, Illinois, that the senate would nullify the constitution by declaring Smith's seat vacant without first seating him and hearing his own defense. Before it was over the charge of Negro disfranchisement in the south was dragged in, to be met by a spirited attack by Senator George, Democrat, Georgia.

Striking directly at Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, who suggested that southern supporters of the resolution might some time find themselves defending their own seat, because of the question, Senator George said there was neither "common sense" nor "common honesty" in that contention. He charged eastern senators with trying to "secure" the senators with trying to "secure" the wrong.

CHINESE GUNBOAT LOST, ALL ABOARD ARE SAVED

San Francisco.—(AP)—Ship and shore radio sets all the way across the Pacific were quoted Wednesday morning while the transiting ship at Woosung, near Shanghai, broadcast word that the Chinese gunboat Hai Shen had capsized, presumably somewhere off the Chinese coast. The exact position of the ship and the names of the men who were slain with it, have not been given, but it was reported that the ship was found floating bottom upward.

Strive For Amity, Plea To Pan-American Nations

Havana.—(AP)—The sixth Pan-American conference opened its business sessions about 11 o'clock Wednesday morning, with Dr. Martinez Ortiz, Cuban secretary of state, delivering the address of welcome to the delegates of all the American countries.

Paying tribute to President Coolidge and the United States for the part which the good work accomplished at previous conferences and admonishing his hearers to do their efforts toward amity and peace with the world, he declared that the chief objective of the conference was to prevent the outbreak of war.

Alfonso Lora, chief of the Cuban delegation, replying, expressing the faith in the progress of Pan-Americanism and in the benefits which Pan-Americanism would bring to the world, not only on the western hemisphere, but on the whole world.

Prior to the opening of the conference, a flag-raising ceremony outside in which the standards of all countries represented were raised, accompanied the enthusiasm of the great crowd which had been assembling since early morning.

Secretary Ortiz paid special homage to President Coolidge and to Charles Evans Hughes, chairman of the American delegation. The speaker, who traveled to Havana to deliver the principal speech at the inaugural session last Monday, the Cuban secretary of state characterized as the chief executive of the nation of greatest democracy and the most honest among those which are memorable in the annals of the world.

After reviewing the work of the various Pan-American conferences at which many international disputes were peacefully settled, Martinez Ortiz sketched the horrors which the world war had heaped upon victors and vanquished alike.

"The insufficiency of great armaments for the defense of the human interests of humanity has been stamped in the annals of the world with the blood of the slain," he said. "It has proven that only equity and justice can prevent the outbreak of war."

"President Wilson's 14 points will always be in history one of the bright stars that showed to the world the end of the storm in the gloomy and apocalyptic night of the human conscience."

"Perhaps some nations of the old continent may look with doubt upon these gatherings in the western hemisphere; but America does not seek progress for her exclusive use she seeks it for the whole world."

The Cuban foreign minister admonished all delegates to "bear in mind that nothing stable can be founded on hate ambition or rivalry. You are going to work for the future more than for the present. If you succeed in making a forward step of the whole world that beholds you find a hope in your resolutions the book of immortal glory will be opened to you."

BOY SCOUT MANUAL NEXT TO BIBLE IN U. S. SALES

Chicago.—(AP)—Next to the Bible, the Boy Scout Manual is the most universally used and sold book in America. Dr. George J. Fisher of New York, told more than 400 registered delegates at the leaders conference of the seventh region which continued in session Wednesday.

Representatives of almost all the 116 councils in Region No. 7, which includes Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan, were present, making this the largest single gathering of laymen from any one region in the history of scouting.

Plans to extend the age limits of scouting to include all boys from 9 years to 18 and beyond were discussed also. The former ages were between 12 and 18. For this purpose a new manual, the first in the 16 years of the organization, is being prepared.

Charles F. Glere of Chicago, was elected chairman of Region No. 7. Among the committee members chosen were: Wisconsin—Dr. W. E. Hanner, La Crosse; George W. Mead, Wisconsin Rapids; R. W. Bond, Milwaukee; George S. Parker, Janesville; Charles Davis, Racine.

YOUNG BOYS HOP FREIGHT TO VISIT GRANDMOTHER

Superior.—(AP)—Bombed by the cold and hungry, two boys, 10 and 12 years old, were found in an empty box car in the Omaha yards early Wednesday. They said they were from New Richmond on their way to visit their grandmother in Duluth.

The father, a laborer, had been located at New Richmond Wednesday morning and although unable to doubt the story, railroad men took them to the address in Duluth which they gave as their grandmother's home. The boys, both 12, showed that they had been traveling since Tuesday morning.

$1,000 REWARD OFFERED FOR THEIR ARREST

Writers of Threat Against Millionaire Fail to Walk into Trap

DWELLING UNDER GUARD

Bogus Money Doesn't Attract Plotters into Net of Authorities

Waupun.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hunsich announced a reward of $1,000 for the apprehension of the men who attempted to obtain $100,000 from them at noon Wednesday.

A bogus bundle of money supposed to contain $100,000 was the medium by which police authorities, finally strove to lure the would-be blackmailers of Mrs. Marjorie Hunsich, Hunsich, wife of a Waupun manufacturer and daughter of A. A. Stahler, millionaire inventor of Waupun and Los Angeles, Calif.

The bundle was obtained by police and private detective Monday night in an effort to apprehend the writers of a letter to Mrs. Hunsich, threatening the life of her husband, Arthur O. Hunsich, owner of the Vogue Hotel, unless $100,000 was deposited at the designated spot near a billboard, west of town.

Carefully guarding their efforts from the public, police and private detectives had the trap that failed. Throughout Monday night, and all day and night Tuesday they watched the billboard, concealed nearby. They arrested two suspicious looking men and released them after questioning. They are still under surveillance, however.

TWO POLICE GUARDS

The home of the Hunsichs, who have a 6-month-old son, under guard, as is the residence of Chief of Police William Tetzlaff, who received a threatening letter two weeks ago, warning him his two children would "suffer" unless he desisted in his prosecution of bootleggers.

The Hunsichs were not under guard Wednesday as the authorities believe the danger had passed. The letter was received by Mrs. Hunsich Jan. 12. It ordered her to place the money near the billboard either Jan. 15 or 17, which prompted the vigilance of the police and detectives and led to the bold Wednesday raid that the man would now attempt to get the money.

A letter written on the back of a handkerchief was addressed to Waupun. It threatened the life of her husband and also warned that if Mrs. Hunsich told anyone they would "blow up the big station in the country into a pile of rubble" which would mean that they would destroy the big station, famous suburban, it stands in the country as a memorial created by Mr. Stahler in memory of his wife.

THREE MEN

On the 15th of January you will give me $100,000 or you will take your man for a ride, the letter read. "We will watch you and him and have a way of knowing. If you let anyone know we will know the big station in the country in a pile of rubble. Let you know we are here and we will blow up the station to a pile of rubble."

What police took as the substance to the Hunsich case in California was contained in the letter, and caused Mrs. Hunsich to become apprehensive for the safety of her young son.

"We do not believe in this holding," the letter warned. "We can shoot to kill or keep a kid or stiff with a knife. We can keep a kid or stiff with a knife. We can keep a kid or stiff with a knife. We can keep a kid or stiff with a knife."

When she received the letter Mrs. Hunsich called the police and called in the police and private detectives from Milwaukee. Mrs. Hunsich drew $100,000 out of the bank and wanted to deposit the real money herself. Police advised her not to risk it and substituted a dummy package instead, mostly newspapers with a $1 on top. This was placed in a designated spot at the edge of town by William Boyle, private detective, while others watched the spot.

FEARS FOR SON

Mrs. Hunsich, about 31, displayed a nervous and only after much effort was dissuaded from risking her life by placing the money at the spot.

"I am not afraid of anything but for my son," she said.

Her father-in-law, the town's benefactor, reported to be worth several million dollars, he has been munificent in helping the city. He built a community clubhouse that serves as a recreational center, had a statue "ended on the trail," by James Earl Fraser erected in the city park, and has endowed scholarships totaling $25,000

LEADING ROLES FOR BAND BENEFIT SHOW REQUIRE 13 ACTORS

Eight Men, Five Women and Big Cast Required for Show
Next Month

All but one minor character for the musical comedy His Honor, the Mayor, which will be presented Thursday and Friday evenings, Feb. 2 and 3, at Lawrence Memorial chapel for the benefit of the 120th Field Artillery band have been chosen Tuesday.

Eight men and five women play the leading roles and that includes the best male and female voices in the city. The chorus of the production is expected to be the best singing chorus ever attempted in a local performance.

Each of the girls has been chosen largely for her singing and all have solo voices as well.

The title role of the play, His Honor the Mayor of Kankeke, is played by Harry Oaks but several of the other male roles are leading parts as well, as they were taken by the stars of the original company. The same is true in the female parts, where four prima donnas are used.

The male characters are Harry Oaks as His Honor, the Mayor of Kankeke; Fred Trezise, as Tommy Prebble, the good samaritan, looking out for the welfare of the ladies; J. M. Van Roy as Teddy Todd, Tom's fast friend; J. F. Bannister as Deacon Flood, the father of Mary Todd, incidentally to keep peace whenever possible; George Theiss as "Reddy" Sampson, a bad man from the West; Bryan Serogy as LaCarte, proprietor of La France Hotel; Carl Schiebler as Solomon Sephistein, a marriage broker; and J. B. Langenberg as Captain Rudolph Zitzke of the Hungarian Hussars, in love with Katrina.

The female parts are played by Miss Margaret Boslogh, a student of Lawrence conservatory of music, as Daisy, a milliner girl from Illinois, in love with Teddy Todd; Miss Ernestine Johnson, also a student of Lawrence conservatory, as a debutante in love with Tommy Prebble; Miss Donna Hermann, as Katrina the gypsy, looking for a husband. Miss Maude Hancock as Mrs. Nease, a widow, otherwise known as Mrs. Loftis, an old sweetheart of Jack Stewart; Mrs. Bertha Barry, as May Flood of Kankeke, also looking for Teddy Todd.

COFFEE DRINKERS NEED NOT WORRY ABOUT THE PRICE

Appleton coffee-drinkers who must get their beverage in local restaurants need not fear that the movement started in Chicago to abolish the nickel cup of coffee will be extended to Appleton. Although one local restaurant has been charging 10 cents a cup for some time it is the opinion of others that the boost is not necessary.

One restaurant owner said that good coffee had always been a "lead-in" at their particular stand and the price would remain a nickel. The opinion voiced here was that if coffee did cost more than was being charged for it the difference would be made up elsewhere.

Another owner admitted coffee cost about 1 1/2 cents a cup as Chicago restaurant owners claim, but with proper buying contracts said he still could hand out a good cup of coffee for five cents and break even.

CASALS SAYS MUSIC BOND OF HIS PEOPLE

Folk Music Furnishes Much of His Inspiration, Coming Musician Says

Pablo Casals, Spanish 'cellist who will appear Monday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel, is playing his first extensive tour of America this season. He has been in America for tentatively for the past six years, but prior claims of European cities and of his native land have made his visits to America far too short for the demand that he created during his first tour.

He will remain in America three months this time, during which time he is obliged to play almost every day. His tour takes him from New England to the far west, with recitals in every important city en route.

Casals was born in Catalonia 43 years ago and was trained entirely in his native country. He filled important positions in Paris and had toured both Europe and America when he was 25. His present preeminence dates virtually from the last years before the war.

His national folk music is the greatest influence and inspiration for a musician, in the opinion of Pablo Casals. "That which colors and influences our whole lives are the strong impressions of childhood," he says. "The traditions of the race, the folk stories and songs, take root in the very fibre of the being and leave something that can never be effaced. It is not only that we remember these moments because of their peace and beauty, but they make a link of us between the past and the future of our people. It is thus that the spirit of a country is preserved."

"And what can be more expressive of the spirit of a people than its folk music—that which is the spontaneous expression of its emotional life. If a musician has drunk deep enough of this, so that it has become a part of his very soul, there is a communion between him and a whole people which gives him a power that no acquired perfection can impart. It creates a subtle bond between him and other men, for he speaks to them not only with his individual voice but with the voice of the very ages and all that is fundamental in them responds to his touch."

BALLARD WOULD TAKE PROFITS FROM GUIDE

Madison—(P)—The income of Sherman Dodge, capitol guide, is threatened by a request for an opinion made by C. E. Ballard, superintendent of public property, from John W. Reynolds, attorney-general. Mr. Ballard asks Mr. Reynolds if the state may not legally publish descriptive folders of the capitol building, and sell them to the public at cost.

Such folders are now published by Mr. Dodge, who sells them for 35 cents to visitors whom he shows through the capitol.

Mr. Ballard points out that Mr. Dodge receives a good salary from the state for his services as guide. Although he says, he is very friendly with Mr. Dodge, he does not feel that state employees should be permitted to make a profit from a private business transaction carried on in connection with his official duties.

Mr. Dodge has been a guide for five years or more. His profit on each pamphlet, which sells for 35 cents, is said to be 20 cents. He sells one to nearly every one of the hundred of visitors who go through the capitol.

MILWAUKEE JESUIT IS ILL IN OMAHA

The Rev. A. J. Tallmadge, S. J., spiritual director of Holy Name society in the Milwaukee archdiocese is reported to be seriously ill with pneumonia at St. Joseph hospital, Omaha.

Father Tallmadge was visiting in that city shortly after the first of the year in the interest of his work when he was taken sick. He is well known in Appleton, having spoken here on several occasions.

CATLIN, ILL., UNABLE TO BE AT COUNCIL MEETING

Alderman Mark Catlin, first ward, who submitted to a minor operation Tuesday, is not expected to be present at the meeting of the city council Wednesday night because of his illness. Catlin led the opposing forces against the proposed 90 minute parking ordinance that ended in a tie vote at the meeting two weeks ago. The ordinance is due for further consideration at the meeting this week.

SCHOOL TO GET CHART SHOWING FLAG EVOLUTION

A chart giving the origin, progressive development and evolution of the United States flag will be set up at Appleton high school, it was decided at a meeting of the principals of Appleton public schools Tuesday morning at Lincoln school.

The chart is of educational value and serves as points of departure for citizenship, history and other allied subjects that are being studied in the school.

Herb Heilig, principal of Appleton Vocational school, gave a report on the meeting of the American Association of Vocational Schools which he recently attended in California.

BRICKLAYERS LEARN ABOUT LABOR COLLEGE

Sigman Tells Trade Unionists
They Should Attend Labor's
School

The Value of the Labor College to Trades Locals, Individuals and the Community was the subject of an address by Samuel Sigman, secretary of Appleton Labor college at the meeting of the Appleton Bricklayers' union in Trades and Labor hall Wednesday night.

Mr. Sigman stressed that all members of all trade unions are in duty bound to give their moral and financial support to the labor college by joining the school. He said labor colleges were known for many years in England and they are the backbone of the labor movement in that country.

He traced the development of the labor college in the United States and told of organization of the first college in Wisconsin many years ago. "Labor colleges are important because they train workers to be intellectual and militant leaders in labor affairs and also to take an active part in the politics of the nation," Mr. Sigman said. "The subjects studied in the labor college are those which cannot be studied by workers in any other school. It teaches the history of labor and unions and helps solve labor problems."

GREENVILLE EQUITY GETS 12 NEW MEMBERS

Twelve members were admitted to Greenville Equity association at a special meeting of that organization Tuesday. Paul Swinberg, Merrill, an organizer for the Wisconsin Equity association talked at the meeting. R. A. Amundson, county agricultural agent, also gave an address.

New members are John Bahl, John Grall, Mike G. Fisch, Emil Doell, Theodore Maas, Henry Krueger, George Deiter, John Hilger, Paul Ashman, E. M. Eredit, Ervin Schroeder and Peter Jackman. Officers are George Schmitt, president; Frank Belmer, secretary; W. H. Becker, treasurer. The association now has 44 members.

The annual meeting of the group is to be held Tuesday evening, Jan. 31, when directors and officers for 1928 will be elected.

COUNTY GOES IN DEBT FOR $25,000

Borrows Money to Pay Current
Bills Until Tax Money
Arrives

Because the Outagamie-co. general fund has been overdrawn, it has been necessary for Mack, chairman of the county board, and John E. Hantschel, county clerk, to borrow $25,000 to meet current bills.

Mr. Hantschel said Tuesday it would be necessary to borrow from $55,000 to $65,000 to pay county bills until the taxes from the various towns, cities and villages are paid to the treasurer on March 20.

A resolution adopted at the November session of the county board authorized the board chairman and county clerk to make the loan if county funds were exhausted. Mr. Hantschel said that the shortage arises from the fact that $100,000 in alleged illegal taxes is being held back by the city of Appleton. A suit has been carried to the supreme court by the county to determine whether the levy under which the $100,000 was collected was illegal.

The money is borrowed from the Citizen's National bank because that bank was designated by the county board as the county depository for 1928.

SELECT PLAY TO BE GIVEN BY HIGH SCHOOL JUNIORS

"Puppy Love," a three act comedy by Adelaide Matthews and Martha Stanley will be given by members of the junior class of Appleton high school under the direction of Miss Ruth McKennan, teacher of speech and dramatics director at the high school. The play will be given Feb. 27 at Fischer's Appleton theatre.

Tryouts for roles will be held Thursday and Friday in room 301 under the supervision of Miss McKennan. The cast provides parts for five girls and five boys.

The following managers have been chosen by the junior class: Carl Wetengel, business manager; Jack Schlegel, financial manager; Robert Elias, advertising manager; Norman Zanzig, stage manager; Monica Van Ryzin, property manager. Nominees who received the second largest number of votes are being retained as they will serve as alternate manager if those elected are chosen for parts in the play.

Prepare For Forum
Preparations for the next open forum, sponsored by the chamber of commerce, will be started at a meeting of the chamber forum committee at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon. The forum is scheduled for the latter part of January.

LOCAL JOBS SCARCE, 'Y' SECRETARY SAYS

Places Have Been Found for None Although Many Applications Are Received

Dosens of men are out of work in Appleton and there are no jobs waiting for them, according to a report of R. M. Eickmeyer, employment secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Though having many applications for jobs, Mr.

Eickmeyer has been unable to place a man during January. The situation is but slightly different than in early December, when no jobs whatsoever were open. Mr. Eickmeyer reports he placed a few men at laborers jobs late in the month. The only jobs open at all are common labor. There is no demand for any kind of skilled labor.

TOOK DOCTOR'S ADVICE —COLD GONE NEXT DAY

Many Here Find Way to End
Colds Overnight at Home
by Hospital Tested Method

By taking the advice of her doctor and using a method that has relieved even the most extreme hospital cases, Miss Agnes L. White, like numbers of Appleton people, found the quickest way to get rid of a stuffy cold.

Miss White, for example, had neglected her cold several days in the hope that it would clear up of its own accord. Instead, it started settling in her nose passages and chest. She began to feel feverish, and finally called the clinic for advice, when her mother feared pneumonia.

Relief began almost immediately when doctors gave her double doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral — a concentrated mixture of wild cherry, turpentine and other ingredients used in treating even the most extreme hospital cases. She felt its comforting warmth instantly — from her nose passages deep down into her chest.

In a few hours the redness of her eyes was gone; her nose passages began to clear up and in another day or so, doctors report, the cold was completely gone.

Note: See other cases reported daily—all certified to this paper by the physician who treated each case.

Doctors find that this hospital medicine does far more than stop coughing instantly. It penetrates and heats inflamed linings of the breathing passages. Absorbed by the system it quickly reduces phlegm, helps allay that "feverish," scratchy feeling and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Cherry Pectoral now and you'll feel like a different person tomorrow. Endorsed by Schmitt Bros., and all druggists, 60c; twice as much in $1.00 hospital size.

WISCONSIN WEATHER
Mostly cloudy tonight and Thursday; possible snow or rain in east and south; slightly warmer tonight except in southeast portion.

WEATHER CONDITIONS
A slight low pressure area over the Tennessee valley section is attended by rain over portions of the south. The pressure is falling over the Canadian northwest southward over the plains states to Texas, with much cloudiness over the central valleys and with moderate temperatures. As this pressure fall develops further and moves eastward it should cause considerable cloudiness in this section tonight and Thursday, possibly becoming somewhat unsettled. Temperatures should be moderate. The pressure is high again in the intermountain region, which likely indicates moderate conditions in this section for two or three days at least.

EXAMS FIRST, THEN ROUND OF FUN FOR STATE FAIR GUESTS

Meeting's Arguments Against Present System Sustained
by Committee

Entrants in the annual contests for rural school children at the state fair in 1928 will not be forced to write their examinations following a round of "pleasure, pink lemonade and peanuts," it was decided at a meeting of the state committee on fair matters, at Madison Wednesday. Formerly the time for writing the examinations has been on Wednesday morning of the week of the fair and the contestants arrived at the fair Monday afternoon and were treated to a round of pleasure on Tuesday. The time for writing the examinations has been set ahead to Tuesday morning and the contestants will not be entertained by state fair officials until the work has been finished.

This change was brought about chiefly through A. G. Meating, Outagamie co superintendent of schools and chairman of the state committee, who made a vigorous address at a recent teacher's convention in Milwaukee, in which he condemned the system. "Children cannot write good examinations when their stomachs are full of pink lemonade, ice-cream and peanuts and their minds full of the exciting events they have passed through previous to the examination," Mr. Meating said.

The committee agreed with his views and the date was changed. Other members of the committee are John Callahan, state superintendent of schools; Mary Ford, assistant superintendent of the education building; Paul L. Kiser of Dodge co and Avery C. Jones of Winnebago co.

A committee of county superintendents was appointed to revise the premium list of school exhibits and Mr. Meating was made a member of the group. The state committee also recommended that the premium list be set in fact.

The following recommendations were made in regard to the contests: That they be limited to spelling and arithmetic; that if penmanship is to be retained, the sample should be written at the time of the contest; that a general intelligence test be given; that the examinations be held at West Allis high school.

WATERMAN INVITED TO FACULTY AT CHICAGO

Carl J. Waterman, dean of Lawrence Conservatory of Music, has been engaged by Carl Kinsey, manager, and Herbert Witherspoon, president of Chicago Musical college, to become a member of the faculty during the coming summer session to begin the last week in June and to extend until Aug. 6. This summer master school is conducted every year, pupils coming from all over the United States to study and to avail themselves of the privilege of hearing grand opera.

Mr. Waterman will give private lessons in singing and class work in vocal analysis and repertoire. This will not effect his contract with Lawrence college.

POLICE WARN MERCHANTS AGAINST BOGUS CHECKS

Police here have been asked to warn local merchants to be careful about cashing checks for a man who represents himself as an advertising agent for various well known national manufacturers, including Shredded Wheat company, Carnation Milk company, Smith Brothers cough drops, Motor Salt company and Royal Baking Powder company. The warning was issued by the Bankers and Merchants Protective Alliance.

The man, whose name is Alfred W. Wurzburg, travels under many aliases including Frank D. McKay and George W. Lake. He is about 35 years of age, five feet, ten inches tall and weighs 160 pounds. He is of medium build, has brown hair and eyes and dark complexion. He is well versed in stocks and bonds and advertising matters and speaks German and French fluently. He has plenty of fraudulent credentials. He usually attempts to pass his worthless checks on merchants on whom he calls.

MORRIS RESIGNS FROM WATER COMMISSION

Fred Morris, secretary of Appleton Water commission since 1917, Monday afternoon offered his resignation to the board at its meeting in the city hall. Mr. Morris said he expects to dispose of his property here and will take a position with the Foreman Engineering Co. of Kansas City, Mo. The resignation is to be effective on March 1 or earlier if Mr. Morris can make arrangements for taking his new position before that date.

Authorizing payment for regular bills constituted the only other business at the meeting.

TREASURER FAVORS TAX PAYMENT CHANGE

Miss Ziegenhagen Agrees
With Judge Rosa on Time for Paying Income Tax

Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, Outagamie co treasurer, favors the plan to have the state legislature change the date for collection of income taxes from June 1 to July 1 in accordance with the suggestion made by Judge Charles D. Rosa, member of the state tax commission. Mr. Rosa, in an address before a Madison club this week, hinted that the commission might ask the legislature to change the time for collection.

Formerly income taxes were collected by towns, city and village treasurers in January when personal and real estate assessments were collected. The 1927 legislature, however, specified that all income taxes are to be collected by county treasurers in June.

Miss Ziegenhagen agreed with Judge Rosa when he said county treasurers and clerks will be busy in June with delinquent tax sales and will be unable to handle the income tax payments. Miss Ziegenhagen said the county treasurers, at a state meeting in Milwaukee recently, adopted a resolution petitioning the legislature to make the change suggested by Judge Rosa.

MENASHA COUNCIL
GIVES PLENTY OF
TIME TO PAY TAXAssessments May Be Paid
Semi-annually and First Payment Time Extended

Menasha—Bids for a motor truck for the street department were opened Tuesday night at a meeting of the common council and later rejected on recommendation of the committee of the whole.

The city attorney submitted a revised ordinance for the installment plan of tax payment providing that the first installment be paid not later than Feb. 29 and the second not later than June 29. The ordinance was unanimously passed as was one for extending time of payment of taxes from Feb. 1 to March 1 without the addition of the 2 per cent fee.

Complaints of sewers on Seventh and Eighth sts. were discussed and the aldermen favored carrying out their promises with property owners to correct the situation. A petition for an electric light on London-st., between Seventh and Eighth-sts., was granted.

MENASHA RESIDENTS
USING THE LIBRARYCirculation Has More Than Doubled During Past Nine Years, Report Shows

Menasha—The circulation of the public library has more than doubled in the last nine years, according to the annual report of Miss Northrup, librarian. In 1919 the circulation was 34,166 while this year's figures showed 74,126. November was the only month that did not register a gain over last year.

Since July 18 the library has been open from 10 to 12 in the morning. The morning attendance for the remainder of the year was 437, and the number of books issued 2234. The hour from 5 to 7 in the evening also has been added since Sept. 1 and is of a busy one.

Among improvements added to the library during the year is new built-in case, heating plant and electric wiring. The rooms on the first floor also have been newly decorated. Among the new books is a set of Encyclopedia Americana. Other volumes were added during the year, but many had to be withdrawn. The present number is 16,638. Shortly before good book week, the schools were visited and the boys and girls, and their parents, were invited to call at the library and see the new books displayed.

STUDENTS TAKE COURSE IN SECRETARIAL DUTIES

Menasha—Secretarial studies, or office training, is one of the important subjects added to the curriculum of the high school last year. Very few schools offer such an up-to-date course because they lack the valuable equipment to conduct the work.

The work covered includes filing, operation of the dictaphone, cutting of stencils, mimeographing, mimeographing, an effective handling of correspondence.

Besides the work done in the class room, the students have been given the opportunity of doing some practical office work for the Menasha Woodmen Ware company and at the office of the local Red Cross.

MISS WEIGLER NEW HEAD OF CHURCH YOUNG FOLKS

Menasha—New officers of the Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor of the Congregational church elected at the annual meeting Sunday evening were: President, Marion Weigler; vice president, Harold Klockiem; secretary, Lucile Schwarz; treasurer, Lauer Adams; pianist, Mrs. J. Best; program committee chairman, Miss Carolyn Schlattman; social committee chairman, Miss Dorothy Stinson; missionary committee chairman, Sylvester Johnson; lookout committee chairman, Miss Mildred Alger; music committee chairman, Miss Doris Schwartz. At the close of the service a very enjoyable social program was carried out.

INCOME TAX CHANGESAssessor Is Speaker at Joint Meeting of Two Clubs at Neenah Tuesday

Neenah—E. P. Worthing assessor of incomes, was speaker Tuesday noon before a meeting of Neenah and Menasha Kiwanis clubs held at Valley Inn. Mr. Worthing explained changes made in the income tax laws during the last year which requires corporations, partnerships, guardians, trustees, administrators of estates to file returns. All married men and their wives with an income of $1,500 or more a year and all unmarried men whose yearly income is $700 or more must file returns, which is somewhat less than last year's requirements. A penalty of $10 for a corporation and $5 for an individual is imposed upon failure to file an income tax report, he said. Mr. Worthing announced that on Friday, Jan. 20, he would be at the Oshkosh court house to instruct those who make a business of assisting people fill out the income blanks. This meeting will start at 10 o'clock in the morning and is not only for auditors but anyone who wishes information.

SAW GIRL'S SLAYER IN DREAM; SUES FOR
REWARD OF $8,000Youth's Story, Overheard by Fellow Workmen, Puts Police on Right Trail

Owasco, Mich.—Did a weird dream that troubled the sleep of 25-year-old Harold Lotridge bring about the arrest of Adolf Hotelling, confessed slayer of Dorothy Schneider of Flint, and so end one of the most feverish manhunts in Michigan's history?

Lotridge believes it did. He has retained an attorney to fight for the $8,000 reward which was offered for the slayer's arrest—and he is ready to admit that his dream, even if it should not win him the reward, has already caused him plenty of trouble.

Lotridge's family lives near Hotelling's family, attends the same church and knows the Hotellings intimately. On the night that Hotelling was elevated from deacon to elder in the church, young Lotridge was made a deacon.

On Monday morning Lotridge and his father went to Flushing, a small town near Flint, where they were employed in the erection of a school house. On the way, Harold told his father of a dream that had broken his sleep the night before.

THOUGHT HE SAW DEED
"I dreamed about the murder of that little girl in Flint," he said. "I thought I saw it being done and saw the murderer, and the impression has stayed with me ever since I woke up."

The father asked him what the murderer had looked like in his dream. Harold gave a description.

"Why, that fits Adolf Hotelling!" said his father, surprised.

"I know it does—what had we better do?" replied the son.

The two continued on to Flushing and started work. There, they told the foreman and asked his advice. He suggested that they lay off for a few hours and go to Flint to tell their story to the police. The two men were reluctant to accuse a well-known neighbor merely on the strength of a dream, however, and decided to wait a while and think the matter over.

But another workman had heard their story. He had a hunch. So, unobtrusively he left his work and hurried to Flint. During the afternoon he returned with a state trooper.

How To Play Bridge

Yesterday I gave a hand and suggested that my readers play it and take the result, promising to tell them today what happened when I saw it in actual play. South was the declarer playing a Spade contract; the original hand was the King of Clubs. The cards were distributed as follows:

North	South
♠ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2	♠ A K Q J
♥ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2	♥ A K Q J
♦ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2	♦ A K Q J
♣ 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2	♣ A K Q J

When the Declarer planned his campaign before playing to the first trick, he could see that he must lose one Diamond trick and probably three Heart tricks. His only chance for game would be to discard two of Closed Hands Hearts and the only possibility of that would be to establish Dummy's Diamonds and then to put Dummy in with the Nine of trumps. The difficulty in carrying this plan into effect was that it could not be accomplished without losing one Diamond trick; and if the adversaries then appreciated the nature of up.

The Blazing Horizon

THE STORY THIS FAR
TONY HARRISON, 12, is orphaned when JEFF HARRISON, his father, is shot in a poker game in Caldwell, Kas. He is befriended by GORDON W. LILLIE, a restaurant waiter, by JOE CRAIG, foreman of the Bar Ranch, who takes Tony to the Bar K to live, and by TITUS MOORE, owner of the ranch, which is in the Cherokee Strip.

There the shy little boy meets RITA, tomboy daughter of Titus Moore.

The year is 1880, and Gordon Lillie is thinking of joining DAVID PATNE, who is agitating for the opening of the Indian territory lands when he gets an offer of a teaching post in the Indian school in Pawnee.

There he lets his hair grow long and becomes known as PAWNEE BILL. After a fight with the school superintendent, he is charged with attempted murder and flees the territory.

He and Craig are in Caldwell some time later when Craig decides to go after a saloon owner named SHAFFER, former marshal of Caldwell, who Craig thinks is crooked and possessor of a knowledge of the whereabouts of Tom Benton, murderer of Jeff Harrison.

He conspires with JOHN BLAKE, chief of the Caldwell police, to declare war on Shafer in an editorial.

He suspects that Shafer will attempt revenge and insists on spending the night with Blake. At midnight they see men moving outside.

Two black shadows glided swiftly toward the rear of the Caldwell Tribune. Three men sat silently watching from a window. Then Craig's voice broke the stillness.

"You little boys had better run home and play," he drawled evenly. "You might get burned."

The shadows straightened, hesitated momentarily and then dropped their burdens and ran back to the line of waiting horsemen.

"They'll hold a council of war now," pronounced Pawnee Bill, and grinned in the darkness at Craig. Blake seemed amazed. "What I don't get at all is how you called the turn on them, Craig."

"You can say I was lucky," Craig said laconically. "They're not through yet. We'll have some shooting directly."

As he spoke the line of black figures began to move. Once more came the rumble of horses' hoofs on the sodden ground and the horsemen swerved off to the left.

Craig moved behind the desk. "You two had better duck, too," he advised the other. "Lead will be flying in the window before we're much older."

The hoofbeats grew louder and faster and the riders came charging past. There was a rattle of shots; splintered glass fell to the floor from the raised windows; several bullets buried themselves in the farther wall and some tore into the desk barricade.

"Fools!" uttered Pawnee Bill contemptuously. "They're acting like a bunch of crazy Indians with an immigrant wagon to play with." He rose swiftly and fired twice at one of the flashes. Craig's gun barked from the other window, and Blake sprang to the top of the desk, where he stood between the two windows and fired through the empty space.

Once more the raiders charged past. "They must be full of liquor," announced Craig, "or they wouldn't be taking such chances." He smiled grimly. "I'm aiming high to keep from hitting a horse." Calmly he stuck his gun out of the opening and emptied it.

There was a sharp cry. "That one went home," said Craig. And now there came the sound of galloping hoofs from another direction.

"I thought somebody would hear the commotion," remarked Pawnee Bill. "Watch 'em run now."

He cried: "we're wasting valuable time." He spoke sharply to the horse and galloped off.

Half a mile out of town they came upon a riderless horse nibbling grass beside the trail. Beside him lay the sprawling figure of a man. Craig saw it and checked his mount sharply.

"Here you are," he said to the marshal, and walked over to the fallen figure and knelt down beside it.

Then he uttered an exclamation. "Cashion! Well, I'll be damned." A queer look spread over his features.

"Dead," announced the marshal. Craig appeared not to have heard him. He was staring abstractedly at his hands, his mind intent on something else. Suddenly he sprang to his feet and spoke rapidly but quietly to the marshal. "Corbett, I'm going to follow the trail a little longer. You can stay here if you want, but—"

"I'm going with you, I'll send some of the boys back with him." He turned aside to issue a few more brief orders; then he and Craig mounted and rode on again, followed by three others. "You know who it was?" Corbett asked presently.

"Cashion? Yes. Used to be a friend of Tom Benton's. Remember him?"

"I've heard some of him. There's a murder charge against him."

They rode till daylight showed them the uselessness of pursuing any farther. "They've probably doubled back," Corbett suggested, scratching his head doubtfully. "If we'd had daylight to follow the tracks they made, it would have been different. As it is, we're ten miles into the Indian territory now and I haven't got any right to be here. I'm going back."

Craig agreed to the hopelessness of the continued search. "I'm downright disappointed, Corbett," he said. "I'd sort of hoped to find something if we rounded them up."

"What do you mean?" "I don't know if I can explain. Get this: I came into Caldwell one day, some time after the Harrison shooting, and found Cashion. Just when I'm ready to have him hauled in, Shafer—he's marshal then—comes to his rescue and puts in a good word. Not long after that Cashion disappears. Now we find him mixing up in Shafer's quarrel. This is Shafer's doing, Corbett; you know that; you're not a fool. All right. Now, who else do you think we might have found in that gang if we'd overhauled them?"

"I reckon you must mean Benton." "That's exactly who I mean. Take my word for it: Shafer is mixed up in a lot of crooked work. It'll be a nice day's work when you put him behind the bars."

Corbett considered this in silence. "I find I'm agreeing with you," he said presently, "but I've got to have some evidence against the man."

"We'll see what kind of a story he's got concerning his whereabouts last night," Craig suggested. "I'm going to pay him a visit in his saloon this afternoon. Do you want to be along?" "You'd better leave that to me, Craig. It's up to me to talk to him. I'm marshal of Caldwell."

"I'm not trying to buy in. I've got what you might call a strong personal interest in this thing and I want to see it through. Why can't you deputize me temporarily to make my actions official?"

"You'll promise not to take advantage of me? I don't want Shafer ported out just to satisfy a personal quarrel."

"Personally," said Craig, "we've never quarreled. I'd be defending your interests in the thing, all the way through."

"That settles me," Corbett told him. "You call for me when you get ready to pay your visit."

Craig rode directly to John Blake's shop. Pawnee Bill met him with the information that the men who had gone to the Oasis the night before had reported Shafer absent. "The bartender told him Shafer had left about 11 o'clock, saying he was sleepy."

Craig nodded. "Blake," he said, "you can get ready to write an editorial about the retirement of Shafer as active proprietor of the Oasis. Right after noon we're going to call on him."

When he entered the Oasis a few hours later, accompanied by Corbett and Pawnee Bill, Shafer was standing behind the bar loudly proclaiming that the unfortunate occurrence of the preceding night had placed him in an embarrassing position. He paled almost imperceptibly as he caught sight of Corbett and his companions, but nodded with an attempt at cordiality.

"I was just saying, Marshal, that I wouldn't have had that happen for anything. Here Blake comes out against me and the same night somebody tries to burn him out. It don't look good for me, I'll admit, but I was in bed at the time."

Craig let his gaze drift carelessly about the saloon. It flickered momentarily as it encountered two men seated at a table and apparently absorbed in a quiet game of cards. They were the men men he had seen in the Oasis the day before and who had followed him as he left. The rest of the crowd was made up of the usual hangers-on, augmented by a few curiosity seekers.

He turned around to face Shafer as the latter finished his speech. "It is too bad," he sympathized. "Where do you Shafer, upstairs?"

Shafer's face turned sullen. "I don't remember addressing you, Craig. I was talking to the marshal."

(To Be Continued)

An attempt is made on Craig's life, but the conspirator is too quick on the draw. In the next chapter.

what you might call a strong personal interest in this thing and I want to see it through. Why can't you deputize me temporarily to make my actions official?"

"You'll promise not to take advantage of me? I don't want Shafer ported out just to satisfy a personal quarrel."

"Personally," said Craig, "we've never quarreled. I'd be defending your interests in the thing, all the way through."

"That settles me," Corbett told him. "You call for me when you get ready to pay your visit."

Craig rode directly to John Blake's shop. Pawnee Bill met him with the information that the men who had gone to the Oasis the night before had reported Shafer absent. "The bartender told him Shafer had left about 11 o'clock, saying he was sleepy."

Craig nodded. "Blake," he said, "you can get ready to write an editorial about the retirement of Shafer as active proprietor of the Oasis. Right after noon we're going to call on him."

When he entered the Oasis a few hours later, accompanied by Corbett and Pawnee Bill, Shafer was standing behind the bar loudly proclaiming that the unfortunate occurrence of the preceding night had placed him in an embarrassing position. He paled almost imperceptibly as he caught sight of Corbett and his companions, but nodded with an attempt at cordiality.

"I was just saying, Marshal, that I wouldn't have had that happen for anything. Here Blake comes out against me and the same night somebody tries to burn him out. It don't look good for me, I'll admit, but I was in bed at the time."

Craig let his gaze drift carelessly about the saloon. It flickered momentarily as it encountered two men seated at a table and apparently absorbed in a quiet game of cards. They were the men men he had seen in the

CHAPTER XVI

Two black shadows glided swiftly toward the rear of the Caldwell Tribune. Three men sat silently watching from a window. Then Craig's voice broke the stillness.

"You little boys had better run home and play," he drawled evenly. "You might get burned."

The shadows straightened, hesitated momentarily and then dropped their burdens and ran back to the line of waiting horsemen.

"They'll hold a council of war now," pronounced Pawnee Bill, and grinned in the darkness at Craig. Blake seemed amazed. "What I don't get at all is how you called the turn on them, Craig."

"You can say I was lucky," Craig said laconically. "They're not through yet. We'll have some shooting directly."

As he spoke the line of black figures began to move. Once more came the rumble of horses' hoofs on the sodden ground and the horsemen swerved off to the left.

Craig moved behind the desk. "You two had better duck, too," he advised the other. "Lead will be flying in the window before we're much older."

The hoofbeats grew louder and faster and the riders came charging past. There was a rattle of shots; splintered glass fell to the floor from the raised windows; several bullets buried themselves in the farther wall and some tore into the desk barricade.

"Fools!" uttered Pawnee Bill contemptuously. "They're acting like a bunch of crazy Indians with an immigrant wagon to play with." He rose swiftly and fired twice at one of the flashes. Craig's gun barked from the other window, and Blake sprang to the top of the desk, where he stood between the two windows and fired through the empty space.

Once more the raiders charged past. "They must be full of liquor," announced Craig, "or they wouldn't be taking such chances." He smiled grimly. "I'm aiming high to keep from hitting a horse." Calmly he stuck his gun out of the opening and emptied it.

There was a sharp cry. "That one went home," said Craig. And now there came the sound of galloping hoofs from another direction.

"I thought somebody would hear the commotion," remarked Pawnee Bill. "Watch 'em run now."

They could hear a sharp command from one of the men outside. At the sound of the voice, Craig turned uneasily and lifted his head. Then came the loud beat of hoofs again, and the raiding party moved off at a gallop. Craig sat wordless, his chin cupped in his hand.

Five minutes later the marshal of Caldwell, leading a motley assortment of men, most of whom had poured forth from the saloons at the sound of continued shooting was listening to their story. Pawnee Bill indicated the direction taken by the raiders. "And if I were you, Marshal, I'd send a man to the Oasis to see if Shafer is hanging around. Just on an off chance."

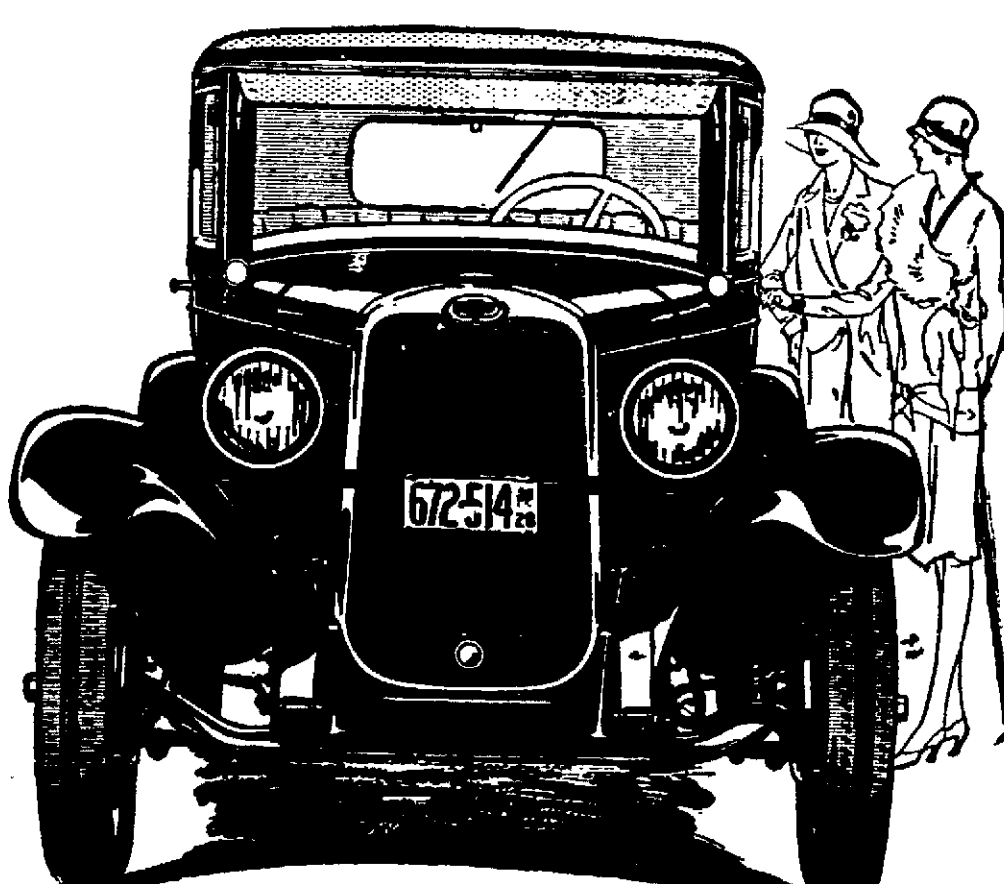

The marshal darted him a swift look of comprehension and issued a quiet order. Craig spoke up suddenly. "I'd be obliged," he said, "if one of you boys would lend me your horse. I've got a longing to ride after them just to see where they head for."

The marshal said something to one of his followers, who dismounted and came over to Craig. "Here, brother help yourself to mine. Don't ride him too hard, though. He's a good animal and I think considerable of him."

Craig murmured his thanks and

Chevrolet Electrifies America with a Great New Motor Car

A new automobile so sensational as to electrify the nation!

With marvelous new Fisher bodies offering all the distinction, beauty and luxury for which Fisher craftsmen are famous! With performance that is a revelation to owners of even higher priced cars! With 107-inch wheelbase—four inches longer than before! With four-wheel brakes—and many additional mechanical achievements!

And... prices that demonstrate again Chevrolet's ability to provide the utmost in modern motoring luxury at the lowest possible cost!

The engine of this great new car is of the improved valve-in-head design. With alloy "invar strut" pistons... specially designed hydro-laminated camshaft gears... mush-room type valve tappets... and a complete new steel motor enclosure—it provides a type of motor operation so thrilling that it must be experienced to be appreciated!

Coupled with this thrilling acceleration and speed is a type of riding and driving comfort almost unbelievable in a low-priced car. Four inches longer than the previous Chevrolet chassis... swung low to the road... and with four semi-elliptic shock absorber springs—the Bigger and Better Chevrolet holds the road with a surety that is simply amazing, and rides in perfect comfort at high speeds over the roughest stretches of highway.

And never before was a low-priced car so easy to drive—for the worm and gear steering mechanism is fitted with ball bearings throughout... even at the front axle knuckles.

All these spectacular new mechanical advancements are, of course, in addition to the host of notable features that Chevrolet has previously pioneered in the low-price field.

Come in and see this latest and greatest General Motors achievement! Learn why it is everywhere the subject of enthusiastic comment—why everywhere it is hailed as the world's most luxurious low-priced automobile.

RELIGION AND REVOLUTION

The Russian soviet is a persistent institution. Despite the seeming odds against any material success it continues, either directly or indirectly, to court the sympathy and good will of the American people. It persists in comparing the Russian revolution to the American revolution in order to create in American hearts an attachment for Russian ideals. The two revolutions are as dissimilar as a Russian soviet mob assaulting those at divine services, destroying their churches and attacking them for their religious ideals, on the one hand, and General Washington kneeling in the snows at Valley Forge beseeching the Almighty for divine guidance, on the other. The Russian revolution typifies hatred; the American revolution, while a very determined affair, was symbolical of restraint. The ultimate outcome or result of the two revolutions must be quite opposite.

If we are to judge the present and future by the past we may say with some historians that the character and ultimate outcome of revolutionary movements may generally, if not always, be judged by their attitude towards religion, not any particular religion but that religion itself or the lack of it is a true barometer of the character of a nation.

In the respect mentioned the Russian revolution is proceeding much along the lines of the French revolution of 1790 when the leaders of the French Communist government encouraged the attempt to stifle and destroy the faith of a people, actually an indestructible thing. The French leaders ordained the catch phrase, "There is no religion but liberty," made it an offense to think otherwise and taught that "there shall be naught but reason" when in fact they were entirely without reason. Thus their revolution proceeded as a gigantic mass of fury, as an encouragement instead of a restraint of the evils that are in men. But people tired of the welter of blood, sickened at the tumbrels clattering over stone paved streets to the guillotine and inquired whether butchery was in fact liberty or denouncing the Creator was an evidence of equality. In the aftermath when reason had in fact returned where it was not before, destruction fled "like a gibbering troop of ghosts, like the phantasms of a dying brain," but the extremes left their scar and the people who had revolted in order to throw off kings voted ten to one to return to the yoke of an emperor in the form of Napoleon. They would have done almost anything to rid themselves of the miseries of "liberty, equality and fraternity" as interpreted by their whilom bloody leaders.

That some of the earthly representatives in the church in Russia might not have been all desired of them, has nothing to do with faith in moral principles. Those who wear the cloth come from the mass of the people and are generally a reflection of the character and intelligence of the people. If the soviet had a little more knowledge of human nature and a little deeper reading into human history it would curb the madness of its leaders in the respect mentioned. It would realize that faith has come to man from the earliest stone age, that it is an integral part of his bone, of his muscle, of his blood, that it is ineradicable whereas "all anarchy, all evil, injustice, is by the nature of it dragon's teeth, suicidal and cannot long endure." Nothing farsighted or constructive can be expected in the way of humanitarian laws and improvements from men who are so blind, so fatuous, as to embark upon a voyage so unnatural. The practical difficulty comes in the enduring harms that always result from extreme measures, the building up of hatreds that are not easily dissolved, with the result that eventually the Russian people will become ready to run to the arms of any dictator, however arbitrary.

A NAME FOR OURSELVES

It is unfortunate that the name of this country, while good in itself, lacks an adjective form. We can't call ourselves "United Statesans," or at least it has never been done; and "United Statesmen" would sound too pretentious. So we have had to fall back upon the term "Americans," thereby presuming on our position a little, and offending some of our New World neighbors.

Canadians and Latin-Americans have often challenged our right to the title, in insisting that they are as much "Americans" as we are. The term "North Americans," while a little more modest, still presumes on the good nature of Canadians, Mexicans and Central Americans.

However, along comes aid unexpectedly from Spain. Rodriguez Marin, director of the National Library in Madrid, says that we really have a right to the title "Americans," because the official designation of our country is the "United States of America." The addition of the last word saves the situation. Brazil, which is known officially as the "United States of Brazil," has no kick coming.

The New world nations of Spanish and Portuguese origin, however, are still left without any designation except that of "Latin Americans," which we use for them and which they themselves dislike. Senor Marin thinks it would solve the whole problem if our Latin brethren were called Columbians, in memory of the discoverer of America.

And so it would—if we could remember to use it, and the nations to whom it is applied could be satisfied with it. Maybe the Pan-American union should do something about the matter.

TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS FOR $2.50

Two New York boys held up a pedestrian one night and robbed him of $2.50. The other day they were sentenced to 27 years in prison for the crime.

At first glance this sentence seems all out of proportion. But when you consider it closely we believe you'll agree there was justice in it.

The boys, to begin with, carried weapons. Suppose the man had resisted; it is logical to assume that they would have used them. It was the operation of chance, not their own will, that kept them from being murderers.

In the second place, suppose their victim had had $10,000 in his pocket instead of $2.50. If you read that two men had been given 27 years in prison for robbing a man of $10,000 you wouldn't have thought the sentence particularly excessive. Yet their crime, even though it actually involved only $2.50, was just as great.

We are going into this case at this length because it is typical of many cases which are seized on by sentimentalists. People who feel that we abuse our criminals are fond of comparing the dollars and cents involved in such cases with the sentences imposed. These people need to realize that it isn't the amount of money taken that makes a robbery serious; it is the act of highway robbery itself.

REMOVING SPEED LIMITS

The state of Michigan has removed all speed limits on rural highways. Hereafter state police will not make arrests for speeding; they will arrest, instead, for "reckless driving" and the like.

This raises again the old question, "How fast is too fast?"

Is an automobile moving at 45 miles an hour always a danger to life and limb—or is such a speed only dangerous under certain conditions? Is it possible for a speed of 25 miles an hour, under some circumstances, to be more dangerous than 60 miles an hour under others?

We have long nourished a feeling that mere speed is not the dangerous factor; that there are times and places where it ought to be legal for a motorist to drive as fast as he wants to. It will be worth while to study the records that Michigan drivers make during the coming year and see just how the removal of speed limits works out in actual practice.

Ohio executed a mental defective of 117 and found the millionaire bootlegger George Remus was just a little crazy when he killed his wife, that's all. Now we're beginning to understand the state the "Ohio gang" came from.

Don't get too discouraged when just one romance proves a failure. Think how often the ocean is crossed in love.

The man who gave the University of Chicago a million to seek means of lengthening human life knows his cities very well.

We can't make up our mind whether to buy one of the new small cars or wait until late summer and get two for a quarter.

The man starting the chain of 5-cent-to-a-dollar stores probably later on will handle the new automobile lines.

You can blame the bootlegger for the modern rye face.

THREE DEGREES OF FROSTBITE

Frostbite or freezing is, in my judgment, the only injury one can suffer from exposure to cold. Discomfort and inconvenience are caused when the environment is colder than one would prefer, but never bodily ill or injury, except frostbite. Frostbite, like canned mud and divers embrocations, comes in three sizes, trial size, household size and hospital size. It is just an arbitrary distinction to say that frostbite is of the first, second or third degree, but this distinction enables us to deal more intelligently with the treatment of frostbite, just as it does in dealing with burns. In fact frostbite or freezing is virtually the same in effect as a burn.

A first degree burn is just a reddening of the skin, such as one is likely to get from the first exposure to strong sunlight in the season. A first degree frostbite is the familiar chilblain. Characteristic of either condition is the smarting, tingling or itching that accompanies the flushing or erythema of the affected area.

Thanks to popular superstition the victim of a first degree sunburn takes his punishment as a matter of course, but if he has a first degree frostbite he feels excited about it and so do all his friends who have remedies they'd like to try out on the victim.

A chilblain may amount to a second degree injury—that is, it may be severe enough to give rise to blisters. But as a rule it is merely a first degree frostbite, a reddening of the skin which lasts a few hours and is sometimes followed by slight peeling after a few days. Chilblain is not confined to the feet, although this is the commonest location of the trouble; the fingers, the ears and the nose are sometimes affected. The first aid treatment is a brisk rubbing of the affected skin with camphor liniment (camphorated oil) or with bay rum or with spirits of camphor or with witch hazel. If itching, pain or smarting remains after such treatment, it is unwise to carry the friction or stimulation too far. Better resort to soothing lotions or salves, such as the standard calamine lotion or an application of zinc oxide salve. Victims of severe or second degree chilblain should beware of using carbolic acid or iodine. If the simple measures suggested fail to relieve, then a condition requires proper surgical treatment.

In some instances, once severe chilblain has occurred, the victim suffers for years thereafter in the winter season from dermatitis, inflammation of the skin. One of the best remedies for this seems to be X-ray, a few light treatments of the affected skin giving prolonged relief.

The prevention of chilblain of the feet in an individual who is susceptible is a matter of dress and general hygiene, and this will be discussed in another article.

Ordinarily frostbite, as explained in a preceding talk, is nothing to get excited over, unless you accord greater weight to superstition and old wives' tales than you give knowledge and experience. If one notices a frostbite, all he needs is an application of one's warm hand or a gentle massaging for a moment or two, and the rubbing should cease as soon as the color or warmth returns to the blanched or whitened or numb spot. Excess of zeal in treatment does much more harm than frostbite does.

Second degree frostbite (or burn) is blistering. Third degree is actual destruction of skin or flesh—sloughing. Treatment, of course, demands surgical treatment and are beyond the skill of the layman.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Just a Little Kiss

If a boy kissed a girl two weeks after he had been sick with pneumonia would the girl be liable to get the disease? (Anxious Person.)

Answer—I surmise you mean pneumonia. No, if any pneumonic germs remained in the convalescent's mouth, they would probably not retain their virulence that long. But an innocent kiss may convey very serious disease even when both persons seem well enough to the casual observer. Among the diseases not rarely communicated in an innocent kiss is syphilis. The girl who knows her vegetables will save her kisses for the guy who is going to give her a new name. And the boy who carries his lions isn't going to be roped into a marriage with any girl who "pets," unless he is a poor sap.

Diet in Epilepsy

Do you recommend fasting under proper medical supervision as a cure for epilepsy? (C. R.)

Answer—No. I do not think fasting is a cure for epilepsy. In many cases, particularly in children, it is a distinct aid in the treatment to prescribe for the patient a so-called ketogenic diet, that is, a diet calculated to bring on a condition bordering on acidosis in the patient's blood. Of course this is safely and effectively done only when the child is under the observation of the physician. (Copyright John F. Dille company.)

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

THE INDIAN IN AMERICAN LITERATURE

It is interesting to notice the phases through which the literature about the American Indian has passed. I was reminded of this recently by the reading of a little book written mainly for boys, "The Red Brother," by R. Ray Baker. While I seldom read boys' books I began this one because it was written by a friend and I continued it to the end because it is much more than a boy's book and because it illustrates the current attitude toward the Indian in American literature beautifully.

"The Red Brother" is a little volume of 155 pages that can be read in an hour. It contains three stories about Indians written in such a way that any healthy boy can take great delight in them. But underneath the stories is something deeper, especially in the second in the group, "Early Dawn," that merits the attention of the adult reader.

But it is the general attitude of the book toward the Indian that makes it significant as a type. The title "The Red Brother" expresses it exactly and the story of "Early Dawn" drives it home with unmistakable force. The Indian is not an inferior, the ward of the government; he is brother and the fact that his skin is red is not important. He is not an inferior race and he is not to be looked down upon by the whites.

Broadly speaking that can be taken as the current attitude toward the Indian in American literature. Read "The Song of Hugh Glass" and "The Song of the Indian Wars," by John G. Neihardt, if you want another good illustration of the present attitude toward the Indian in American letters. Or otherwise read the numerous Indian poems of Lew Saret. Both Neihardt and Saret treat the Indian with great respect. Their respect in fact is so great that they take pains to record the Indian's faults as well as his merits. They do not sentimentalize him as a child of the forest spoiled by civilization. They have both taken pains to become acquainted with the real Indian as he is and then have taken pains to portray him faithfully without condescension. To them, as to Mr. Baker, he is genuinely a red brother.

In the early days of the Republic the Indian was not portrayed as a brother. In pre-Revolutionary literature he was almost invariably the villain of the piece. He was treacherous, not to be trusted, a murderer, a savage who killed inhumanly and in defiance of all the rules from ambush. All of which was very natural. The whites were taking the Indian's land away from him and the Indian fought back. He was often treacherous and he fought from ambush, but while this violated the laws of war from the whites' point of view, it did not violate them from the Indians' point of view. And what greater right did the whites have to establish rules than the Indians?

Then came Cooper. By that time the Revolutionary war had been won and in the eastern half of the United States at least the Indian had been subdued or driven out by superior force. It was no longer necessary to regard him as invariably the villain. Cooper several times portrayed a good Indian, notably in "The Last of the Mohicans." But he and the people he wrote for lived so near the frontier and at a time when the Indian massacres were so recent that of necessity many of the Indians must still be portrayed as beasts and savages.

The sentimentalization of the Indian did not come until a generation later, at a time when the clash between Indian and white was far in the past. By that time the whites could afford to patronize the Indian. To them he was not a brother, an equal; he was a sort of grown-up

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

TOBACCO'S HARM LIES IN ITS ABUSE

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBREIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

A committee of distinguished physicians and public health officials organized under the name, "The Committee to Study the Tobacco Problem," has just issued under its auspices a review of current scientific knowledge of tobacco by Dr. Pierre Schrupp-Pierson of the University of Cairo.

In general, his conclusions support those of most scientific investigators relative to the apparent harmlessness of tobacco smoking in moderation and the apparent seriousness of tobacco smoking in excess.

TOBACCO'S BY-PRODUCTS
The chief poison existing in tobacco is nicotine, but there are other by-products such as wood alcohol, carbon monoxide, ammonia, formaldehyde, and similar substances, none of which are apparently present in sufficient quantities to produce damage unless the smoking is excessive.

It is, of course possible that the combination of these ingredients may exert serious effects which the individual poisons do not exert in the dosages taken.

Acute tobacco poisoning is marked by paleness, dizziness, faintness, sweating, and muscular weakness. Similar symptoms are associated with chronic tobacco poisoning, and there may be also mental depression, nervous disturbances and nerve inflammation.

HEART DISTURBANCES
Particularly important is the relationship of tobacco smoking to disturbances of the heart. For this reason, practically all physicians forbid the smoking of tobacco to those with angina pectoris or disturbances in the rhythm of the heart. Among other disturbances smoking may produce a chronic laryngitis or hoarseness.

Smoking may interfere with the appetite, and indeed, many women who are dieting prefer to smoke before meals so as to destroy the craving for food. Since smoking also deadens the sense of taste, it interferes in that manner with the appetite.

LIKE ALCOHOL PROBLEM

His review of the literature causes Dr. Schrupp-Pierson to believe that the tobacco problem is the same as that of alcohol. A sound individual may take what is for him a moderate dose without injury. The same dose, however, may be serious for someone who is ill or for another sound individual who is influenced by smaller doses.

The moderate use of tobacco seems to bring on a series of disturbances which tend to become worse and which may be serious.

THE CIGARET HABIT

Cigarette smoking has increased tremendously in recent years. Today the magazines and periodicals addressed to women contain more extensive cigarette advertising than do those published wholly for men.

The cigarette smoking habit leads to abuse, particularly among nervous people who indulge in smoking as a relief from nervous strain. Moreover, the cigarette smoker is likely to inhale, whereas the cigar smoker and pipe smoker rarely do so.

Perhaps one of the reasons why public interest has not been properly centered on this subject is the exaggeration indulged in by the anti-tobacco fanatics.

NOT LIKE DRUGS

Tobacco cannot possibly be placed on the same basis as morphine and cocaine. Certainly, its abuse is not likely to be as serious as the abuse of alcohol. It is a product which, if used in moderation, may yield to the human being considerable pleasure. Abused, it results in harm.

The scientist considers it his problem to determine exactly the extent of its harm.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Sorens

New York—Of all the strange and assorted industries to be found in New York, the prize-winner seems to me to be a little establishment down on the Bowery where beggars are kept supplied with their varied wares.

The very notion of selling something to beggars seems sufficient paradox for anyone.

Just what does one sell to a beggar you may ask. To which Sam Moore, whose business it is to know such things, would answer: You sell them those pathetic cards that tell of the explosion in the mine, or how a leg was shot off in the Civil War, or how a horse ran away and dumped you out, or how an eye was lost in a great disaster, or how you were left orphaned.

For these cards, like all business cards, are made in order. And in Manhattan, and probably elsewhere, begging is a business.

You sell them those little packets of court-plaster that they try to peddle; you sell them those other little packets containing smelly sachet powder; you sell them needles and pins; you sell them shoelaces and all the other wares to be found in the beggar's pack.

If you visit Sam Moore's of a morning—but don't go too early, for even beggars must have their sleep—you will see a strange army of the maimed, the halt, and the blind. All of them have turned their misfortunes into professions; all of them are highly professional. And you will learn a great deal, most of which will prove singularly depressing. You will learn, for instance, that the last thing a beggar wants to do is to sell his wares. His wares are but a decoy. He wants you to give him a dime and leave him with his stock.

You learn that even beggars talk shop; that several of them are distressed because people actually took their needles and gave them but a dime. As every cool beggar knows—there is little profit in that.

You learn that Sam Moore gives them plenty of credit and that they are pretty good pay, as customers go. Times not hard for beggars as for others. Just now with the holidays over beggars who are fit to carry a pack of needles have money in their pockets—just now in the bank. A great many have considerably more than those who toss coins in their hats.

But don't fool yourself; the beggar knows human psychology. The pleasant feeling one gets for a dime or a quarter when one flings change into the proffered hat is worth many times the amount. The donor of a comfortable fortune could not feel more charitable and Christian-hearted. And the beggar knows this well. He does not feel that he owes anything to anyone. He is the medium for opening many hearts, and he knows it.

As for Sam Moore, he can tell you of Ritz beggars and poor beggars. There are beggars who "put on the airs," giving the impression that they are "looking pretty" and cleaning up. And there are beggars who really need that "cup of coffee." As far as Sam is concerned no beggar will go without his coffee if he has a subway fare to the Bowery. For Sam always has some small change for the truly hungry.

Also he has a few human interest stories—for his place is an exchange for the brotherhood of beggary. His banks money for them and looks after their business status. One beggar has a brother who frequently sends a check came for $25. There is another whose father is rich and socially prominent in Boston.

Q. Where is Ice Tickle, Labrador?

A. The word, tickle, is used in Labrador to denote a harbor or bay so that Ice Harbor and Ice Tickle are undoubtedly the same place. Ice Harbor is 22 degrees 20 inches N. and 52 degrees 20 inches W. It is situated in the northwest point of Labrador, on Hudson Bay.

Q. What is a prairie schooner? V. M. D.

A. As used colloquially in the United States it refers to a long canvas-covered wagon used especially by emigrants crossing the prairie.

If you can answer "Yes" to these questions---this is your store

- No. 1—Like Huckleberry Pie?
- No. 2—Hate a menu printed in French?
- No. 3—Ever say things under your breath when the breath goes out of a tire?
- No. 4—Kick like a steer when your wife steers you to the photographers?

Then come and see a storeful of men and merchandise that are as human as "Way Down East" and as American as "Ham and Eggs."

NEW LIBRARY BOOKS INCLUDE LISTS FOR TOTS AND GROWNUPS

Some of the Most Prominent Books Published in Past
Year Added to Shelves

Snake Gold, by Harvey White, is one of the outstanding books for children recently added to Appleton public library, according to library authorities. The setting is in the west and is an interesting western story for children, especially boys, from 12 to 16 years of age.

Janny, by Abbott, is another one of the books that can never be kept on the shelf in the children's department of the library, for the fascinating story of a little orphan keeps the volume in constant circulation.

The Forge in the Forest, by Padraic Colum, is an exceedingly pretty fairy story, which in reality is a new edition of an old, old story. Clematis, by Cobb, is a sweet story for younger children.

Cornelia Meigs, author of Trade Winds, the $2,000 prize story for children which has been so popular, has also written As the Crow Flies and Kingdom of the Winding Road.

Tales of Wonder and Magic, by Katharine Pyle is another book which has recently been acquired at the library and which the children like a great deal. Sewing Susie, by Elsie Singmaster, concerns the Civil War.

Other new titles added in the children's room at the public library in December were:

Armistice Day, by R. H. Schaffner; As the Goose Flies by Katharine Pyle; Bruce, by Albert P. Terhune; Captain Blood by Rafael Sabatini; The Enchanted Mountain, by E. O. White; Knee-high to a Grasshopper by A. & D. Parrish; Let's Go by L. F. Randle; Mr. Wind and Madam Rain by Paul E. de Musset; Pepper and Salt by Howard Pyle; Sue Orcutt by C. M. Valle; Vini by Johanna Spyri; and Wonder Tales Retold by Katharine Pyle.

GAS DEPARTMENT OF UTILITIES TO MEET

The annual convention of the gas association will be held in Madison, Feb. 23 and 24, according to an announcement by Albert A. Schuetz, Milwaukee, chairman of the section. Representatives of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company gas department here will probably attend though no definite information is available.

"This will be the first convention of the section to be held in Madison," said chairman Schuetz, "and will afford many gas company representatives their first opportunity to inspect the gas research laboratories at the University of Wisconsin."

Arrangements are being made to obtain nationally noted gas engineers as speakers. Reports will be presented on various problems of manufacture and distribution of the section.

John N. Cadby, executive secretary expects an attendance of at least 125 delegates from the different companies in the state. The program for the convention will be completed by the end of January.

SEYMOUR FARMERS MAY FORM CHEESE FEDERATION

Whether Seymour farmers will approve establishment of a branch of the Wisconsin Cheese Federation in that city will be decided at a meeting of dairy farmers in Seymour auditorium beginning at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. State officers of the federation, among them President Brickbauer and Manager Swaboda of Plymouth will address the gathering. An afternoon meeting has been called for 1 o'clock.

James Vint, Madison, commissioner of markets also will attend the meeting and will discuss dairy and cooperative methods with the farmers. A special committee of Fred Brick, Emil Mueller, B. L. Reed, Edward Wendt, Herman Mass and Dr. H. Helms are arranging the meeting.

L. Davis, who recently purchased the Tomahawk Union Tanning company, left Monday for Tomahawk where he will spend the week on business.

ARROW ON SCHOOL GUIDES TRANSIENT AVIATORS

Although Appleton can't boast an airport aviators who pass over the city are able to learn the name of the community and they also are enabled to check their direction because of the activity of the aviation club of Appleton high school. The young members of this organization caused a huge APPLETON to be printed on the roof of the high school in letters 17 feet high and they also painted a big arrow pointing north by which aviators can check their direction. It is probable that if an airport is constructed here the arrow will be repainted to point to the landing field.

Keep Girls' Minds Busy,
Advice Of Miss Schrottki

The young girl does not run away from home seeking a stage career nowadays when she is given something to occupy her mind that she may find means of self-expression, is the opinion of Miss Oleda Schrottki, New York, secretary of plays and pageants for the National Girl Scouts, who is at present in Milwaukee to begin work on a folk festival in which 1,800 to 2,000 Girl Scouts of Milwaukee county will take part.

Miss Schrottki is the daughter of Appleton, and a graduate of Lawrence college. Her experience after leaving college has been diversified for she has taught school, been a member of the Provincetown players, and active in Girl Scout work. Her work with the latter organization has been original in nature, for it has included writing Girl Scout plays as well as helping produce them. Miss Schrottki goes into a community and writes the play from the lore and legends characteristic of that locality.

In the pageants put on by the Girl Scouts, Miss Schrottki finds a place for every type of girl. The least attractive finds a means of expression. Put a little girl in a medieval costume and she really feels that she is that medieval lady, says Miss Schrottki.

Pageantry gives an opportunity to bring about better understanding between peoples, for the folklores of different countries and nationalities are studied and analyzed. An understanding of customs means a sympathy and understanding of people themselves, is Miss Schrottki's view.

Father John's Medicine Again
Proves Its Value—For Colds,
Coughs and Body Building

We use Father John's Medicine with great success continually in our home. writes Miss Lillian Bokes, of 1241 North St., Minneapolis, Minn, in a recent letter.

For colds and as a preventive of the more serious colds, which so often develop into influenza, Father John's Medicine is the standard home remedy in countless homes.

For over 70 years this medicine has proved its value and it is worth knowing that there is absolutely no alcohol nor nerve-depleting drugs of any kind in any form in Father John's Medicine.

SECOND Anniversary

first- Get the
"Diana Habit"

in Service and Quality

Why has the Diana Sweet Shoppe grown so rapidly in a short period of two years to its present place of one of the leading shops in the Fox River Valley?

The Answer Lies in These Two Words—
SERVICE Plus QUALITY

Just two years ago the founders of the Diana dedicated themselves to progressive, helpful service, and unsurpassed quality of product. Always trying to give Appleton the best and most modern Sweet Shoppe possible. That they have succeeded immeasurably in their ideals is attested in the fine rapid growth of the Diana during their short period of business in Appleton.

Two Years of Successful Business

Two years have passed during which time we have witnessed remarkably steady growth in the business of the Diana. No expense has ever been spared at the Diana to serve only the best. Liberal portions of the highest possible quality foodstuffs are served in a manner which is pleasing to all.

The fountain business today has increased tremendously because of the desire of people for light food and lunches rather than the heavy meals of years ago — Now 75% of the people get their lunches at a soda fountain. With this idea in mind the proprietors founded the Diana to serve this community—and the people in return have responded to this idea in such a fashion that today the Diana is a highly successful institution.

Ice Cream
SODAS 5c

We are extending to the public a most cordial invitation to visit us on Thursday to help us celebrate our second anniversary. On that day, we will serve ice cream sodas of any flavor for 5c. (This is our regular 15c soda). Make yourself believe that you are living in the pre-war days when eggs sold for 10c a dozen and other prices were correspondingly low and enjoy as many of our delicious sodas as you desire for 5c per glass. If you've never enjoyed one of our delicious sodas, made by expert soda dispensers, take this opportunity to try them for the quality will not be lessened one particle.

KAUKAUNA-LITTLE CHUTE-KIMBERLY

NEARBY
TOWNSEXTEND TAXPAYING
TIME IF BIG MILLS
PAY TAXES EARLYCouncil Wants Extended Time
if Big Taxpayers Refuse to Pay This Month

Kaukauna—A month's extension for paying taxes will be given to the citizens of this city providing the three largest mills in the city and the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal Co. agree to pay their taxes before Feb. 1. A motion to this effect was adopted by the city council at its meeting Tuesday evening. The council split on the question with five aldermen supporting each side and Mayor W. C. Sullivan cast the deciding ballot in favor of the extension provided the mills pay before Feb. 1. As it stands now all taxes on city property must be paid before that date otherwise a penalty must be paid. In past years a month's extension of time has been granted taxpayers but it was found that the mills and other large taxpayers always held back in paying their taxes until nearly the last day. Consequently the city lost considerable interest money.

ABROUSE ARGUMENT
The question arose a heated discussion Tuesday evening when Alderman George Phillips proposed a motion granting the extension of time providing the big taxpayers consented to pay during the month of January. In this way it was believed that it would materially benefit the less fortunate people in the city. This year however, the city finds itself in a peculiar position. A large amount of money is necessary by the first of February and if tax time is extended and the mills do not pay until the latter part of February the city must borrow the money to meet its obligations.

Alderman W. H. Cooper figured that the city would lose around $600 if a month's extension were granted. L. C. Wolf, city clerk, warned the council that taxes have been coming in very slowly and unless they pick up soon there will not be enough money in the city treasury by the end of the month to meet the month's bills. One bill of approximately $15,000 must be met by Feb. 1 and the city clerk added that a smaller sum had just been taken from another fund to pay a debt which just came due.

"Alderman Phillips has made a good suggestion," Mayor Sullivan told the council, "but there is little use of an extension of time if the mills will not pay. The three mills and the canal company alone pay over $100,000 in taxes and if this amount is received by the end of the month it will be possible to grant a month's extension without any penalty attached."

"I venture to say that most of those in the poorer classes here already made a big sacrifice to pay their taxes and those who can well afford to pay are the only ones who will benefit," Alderman E. R. Landreman said.

MEETS WITH MILLS
A vote on the question was ordered and Bay, Hoolihan, Ludke, Phillips and Cooper voted "aye" with Cooper, Faust, Gertz, Landreman and Smith voting "no." The mayor voted for the measure and it was carried. The mayor will communicate with the three mills and the canal company and if they agree to pay their taxes by Feb. 1 a special meeting will be called and an extension of taxpaying time will be granted.

A resolution petitioning the county and the state to provide funds for the rebuilding of the Lawest bridge was introduced by Alderman Cooper. It passed unanimously. It was explained that the city could ask for county and state aid because the length of the bridge still is 390 feet, exclusive of the approaches.

No action was taken by the council on the petition signed by 267 electors of the city asking for a special election this spring on the manager form of government following a report of the city clerk. Mr. Wolf reported that the handwriting on many of the signatures on the petition appeared to be identical so that there was a strong possibility of some names being forged. He also reported that on many of the sheets included in the petition there were no headings at the top or affidavits at the bottom, nor were there any dates of filing on some of them. The council confirmed the report of the city clerk and authorized the return of the petition.

George Smith reported that a member of the United Studios Corporation of Chicago will be in the city this week for the purpose of looking over sites for a modern theater. Upon his arrival Alderman Smith plans on having a committee of city officials and members of the Kaukauna Advancement association confer with him. The alderman said that the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal Co. was willing to sell the property across from the municipal building at a reasonable price and he figured about 50 front feet would be necessary for the erection of a modern theater.

KAWMEN DROP GAME
TO DE PERE, 18-17McAndrew Team Holds Lead
Until Last Few Minutes of Fast Tussle

Kaukauna—Kaukauna High school basketballers lost a hard game to East De Pere High at the Kaukauna gym in Tuesday evening when the invaders nosed out the Orange and Black 18 to 17 after Kaukauna had led for more than half of the game. The game was decided on free throws, for each team made eight baskets and the Kawmen lost their opportunity of winning by their failure to make more than one free throw of five chances. East De Pere got two chances from the cafeteria line and made both of them. The Macmen's inability to drop free throws was surprising after the nine donations dropped through the net at Two Rivers on Friday evening of last week.

The local midgeets were handicapped by the height of the downriver schoolers who continually passed over the heads of their smaller opponents. Even then Kaukauna put up a good defensive game and East De Pere had to rely upon long shots for most of its baskets.

Bill Miller gave ample proof to the large crowd of fans that his shooting at Two Rivers last Friday night was not all luck and again he dropped four baskets, three of which were made in the first half. Farwell was close behind the center with three baskets to his credit and R. Sager made the other one while Esler tossed in a free throw. Berg, one of De Pere's forwards, also made four baskets and was a great power in the offense for the invaders although Vanden Biemmen at center comes in for a goodly share of credit.

Huehl made De Pere's other basket and the big center tossed the two gifts for two additional points.

Kaukauna led at the end of the first quarter 6 to 4 after W. Miller had scored twice and R. Sager dribbled through the De Pere defense for a pretty one. Berg and Vanden Biemmen counted for downriver school. At half time the Kawmen still had a two point lead with the score at 9 to 7. W. Miller counted a basket for the local talent and Berg returned the compliment to keep the invaders in the running. Esler and Vanden Biemmen made free throws.

The second half started out lively with De Pere showing plenty of fight. In the third period Farwell shoved one through the net and W. Miller made his final basket of the game while Berg counted twice for the East high team. Vanden Biemmen's free throw put East but a point behind the Kawmen and then his long basket gave the invaders the lead. From then on the game was nip and tuck with De Pere not to be denied and the one point lead was enough to win the game for East high. In the final period Farwell made both of Kaukauna's baskets and Lee and Vanden Biemmen divided honors for the winners, each with a basket to his credit. It was a good game and the crowd was kept on its feet most of the time.

In the preliminary the Kaukauna Twenty-five club won a 6 to 2 game from Kobussen' Kolts.

KAUKAUNA PRO TEAM TO PLAY APPLETON QUINT

Kaukauna—Another attempt to put pro basketball on a firm basis in this city will be made on Thursday evening when the Kaukauna All-Collegians meet the Appleton All-Stars in what promises to be a thrilling exhibition of the court game. The Electric City squad got off to a good start last week by winning from the Neenah Yellow Jackets 22 to 17 and the possibilities for another win this week seem good.

Included in the Kaw lineup is John Roach and "Jake" Zussman at forwards, Dilweg at center and Besten and "Red" Smith at guard. Roach, Besten and Smith are former Notre Dame athletes while Zussman is remembered for his good work while at Lawrence college. Incidentally, he made more than half of the baskets against Neenah last week. Dilweg is a product of Marquette and while the big center did not look so good in his first pro game in this city match is expected of him against Appleton.

Three other Lawrence college stars, Briese, Kotal and Basing, will wear the colors of Appleton and this trio will be strengthened by Hillman and Jacobson.

The big game is scheduled for 8 o'clock and the preliminary starts at 7:15. In the prelude the Kaukauna Y. M. C. A. Cubs play Co. D of Appleton. The locals have defeated the Appleton soldiers once this season and are planning on repeating Thursday evening.

COUNCIL PETITIONS
COUNTY BOARD TO
PAVE APPLETON-RDPresidents of Kimberly and Combined Locks Urge Kaukauna Action

Kaukauna—Kaukauna's dream of a permanently paved road between Kaukauna and Appleton on the south side of the river may become a reality if the county board acts favorably at its February meeting on the resolution adopted by the city council Tuesday evening in the council chamber of the municipal building. The council unanimously adopted a resolution petitioning the county board to pave county trunk highway 2 between the two cities. This highway passes through the village of Kimberly and Combined Locks.

Anton Jansen and J. T. Doerfler, village presidents of Little Chute and Kimberly, respectively, attended the council meeting and asked the cooperation of Kaukauna in securing this highway. Mr. Doerfler said: "For a long time I have been interested in having this south side road paved and now I believe the time has come when it should be done. The amount of money being spent each year for the maintenance of this road in its present condition is excessive; paving will cut the maintenance cost. My village is preparing a resolution to be presented to the county board requesting the paving of county trunk 2 between Kaukauna and Appleton and I believe it will be done if we will cooperate. For many years we have stood aside now it is high time we play to the home folks, those who bear the heavy burden of the taxes and who must pay for the construction of roads which have been built for the good of tourists."

ROAD BEING RUINED
"Each year the traffic on U. S. highway 41 increases and we on the south side of the river must cross over and join the traffic on this already overloaded road. At the rate at which the north side road is being ruined by this heavy load it will not be long before we will not have any road at all. A paved road on the south side would save most of the heavily laden trucks and busses over it, thus relieving highway 41. The lives of citizens of the village of Kimberly are daily being jeopardized while they attempt to drive onto the federal highway after crossing our bridge and ascending the hill leading to the highway."

"I believe the county will save money even if it has to float a bond issue to pay for this road," Mr. Jansen told the council. "Maintenance of the south side road in its present condition is close to $5,000 each year and it is not being bettered. This amount alone would take care of the interest for two years of a bond issue necessary for paving the highway. I believe it is high time that the representatives of this section of the county wake up and fight for what is rightly theirs. They must fight if they are to get what is justly theirs. The board meets in February and action must be taken to get this paving done at once. The village of Little Chute stands ready to cooperate with any of the neighboring villages or towns. We have always stood by while our money was being expended in other sections of the county, now it is time we get something. If the city of Kaukauna, the villages of Little Chute, Combined Locks and Kimberly and the towns of Kaukauna and Buchanan cooperate we will get the road."

EXPERIENCED PLAYERS IN HIGH SCHOOL CAST
Kaukauna—Rehearsals are well well under way for the production of "Icebound," the Kaukauna High school play to be presented at the school auditorium on Friday evening Feb. 3. Practically all of the cast has had previous platform work. Mona Wright who plays the leading role entered the district contest at Oshkosh last year in declamation. The part of Ben will be taken by John Taylor who is to be remembered for his work in "Ruddigore" last year and "Christmase in Merrie England" and the "Love of Pete" this year.

The plays gives unusual opportunity for character acting. One of the interesting characters is that of Henry, the bespeckled husband and merchant of Vaeze, Maine, played by Howard Copp, who last year appeared in "Fair of Sixes." In the same play Edward Leary, who portrays the judge in "Icebound," made his first appearance in dramatics.

All of the special scenery and lighting effects for "Icebound" have been worked out by Miss M. C. Wagner, head of the dramatic department of the high school, under whose direction the play is being produced.

OLD TREATY PROVIDES
SHOES FOR INDIAN NAGS

Quapaw, Okla. — (C) — Although wealth from land rich in zinc leads ore gives the Quapaw Indians luxurious automobiles the tribesmen remain lovers of fine horse-flesh.

William Long, government blacksmith attached to the tribe, is kept busier than any garage mechanic, for it is his duty to see that 150 horses, some valued as high as $300, are kept properly shod.

Long holds his federal job under the provisions of a treaty made with the Indians in 1833, when Andrew Jackson was president. The treaty provided that "in view of their present impoverished and wretched condition" the Quapaws were to receive from the government the service of "a blacksmith to do their necessary work."

In a weather-beaten blacksmith shop overlooking Spring river Long and his predecessors have fulfilled Uncle Sam's contract for almost a century, although the Quapaws no longer are in an "impoverished and wretched condition." Royalties from lead and zinc mines give members of the tribe an income of more than $1,000,000 a year.

WHAT IS CAL-X?

Every woman in America should know the answer to that question, and thousands of them ARE learning the meaning of it every day.

CAL-X is a wonderful new household aid—a magic-like powder that sifts into water and makes all cleaning amazingly easy.

Never before has there been anything like CAL-X. CAL-X instantly softens the hardest water—dissolves immediately—requires no stirring—forms no sediment.

Takes but a second to use and should be employed wherever soap and water are used for cleaning purposes.

It cuts the most stubborn grease and grime—loosens and dislodges packed-in dirt—takes off tarnish and rust with a rush—removes spots and stains—keeps the hands soft, white and smooth—and will not injure the daintiest fabrics.

CAL-X enables you to accomplish twice as much, in half the time and with half the effort. CAL-X finds dozens and dozens of uses daily around the home. And because it insures the very climax of cleanliness everything stays cleaner much longer.

Your grocer can now supply you with this most modern of all cleaning agents. Do not fail to try it.

You will notice a big difference after using it once. The question will then be "How did I ever get along WITHOUT CAL-X?"

APPLETON, WISCONSIN

CONTRACTORS MUST HAVE GOOD RATING TO GET BIDS READ

Responsibility of Party Investigated Before Being Awarded State Work

Madison—(AP)—To obviate the necessity of discarding low bids on road construction work, when the bidder is not qualified to perform the work, the Wisconsin highway commission began the classification of contractors, O. C. Rollman, construction engineer of the highway commission said today before the seventeenth annual road school in session here.

Under this system, used since 1925, he said, a contractor is not allowed to bid unless he is qualified to do the work. Now the low bidder always gets the contract, while previously many low bids had to be rejected because the bidder was not responsible. Dissatisfaction resulted from the old system, Mr. Rollman said, because many of these bidders when told that they were not responsible, claimed the highway department was not giving them a fair deal.

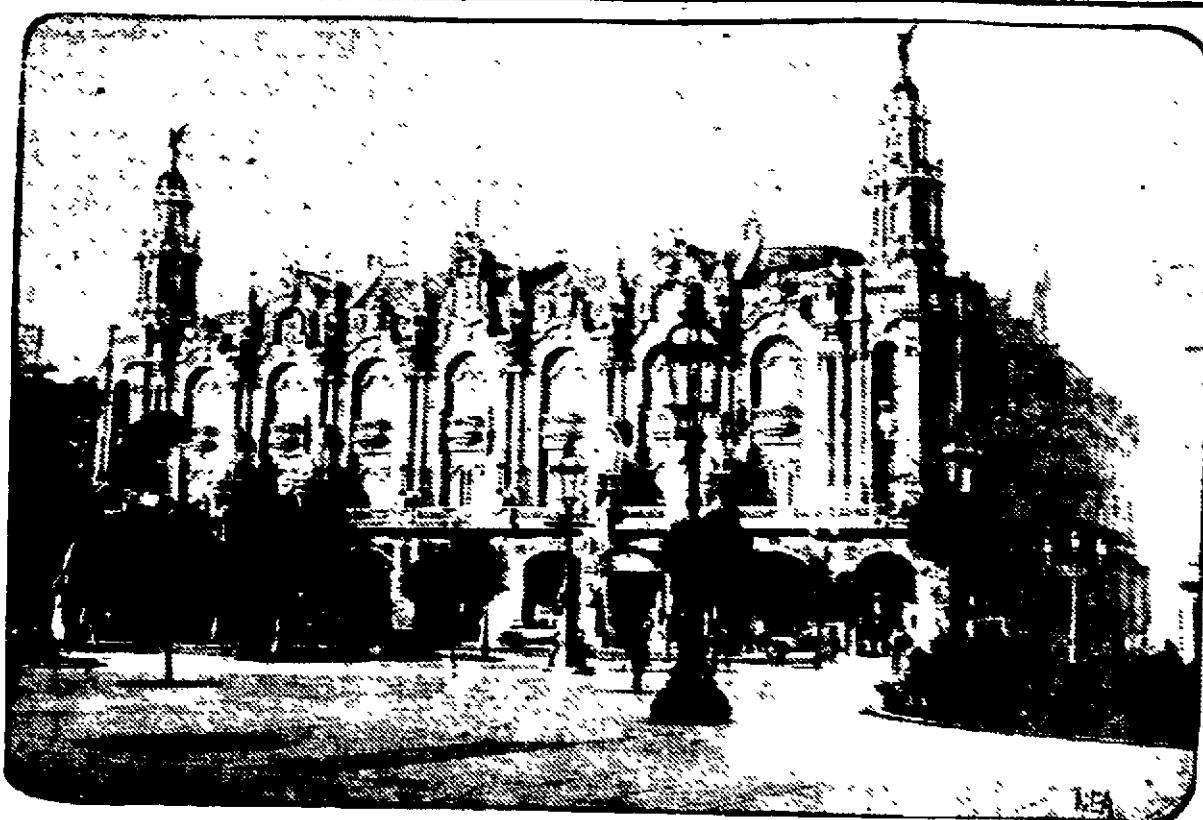

All notices to contractors bear the notice, "Bidders must be on qualified list for the type and quantity of work to be bid upon at least two days before the time set for opening bids."

Information of the department, shows, according to Mr. Rollman, the amount of the contractor's experience, the type of work done, the size of the jobs and other details. The progress of work accomplished is also given, with criticisms of the way it was handled. The contractor's financial rating and the amount of his backing is shown by a questionnaire filled out by the contractor.

The different classifications are general contractors, grading or surfacing, concrete, timber or steel, small structures and paving only. A general contractor is one who can bid on any or all of the classifications, although he is limited in the amount of work that he can do under any one classification, Mr. Rollman declared.

The information which the department has on file is kept strictly confidential, according to Mr. Rollman. When a contractor makes a bid on a job, for which he is not qualified the bid is not read, but is later returned to the contractor with the explanation why his bid was not opened. The system is working out very satisfactorily, Mr. Rollman states. Some difficulty is caused by contractors trying to get a high rating as possible, and many of them are on the list for more work than they can handle. The rating is adjusted from year to year, and in that way all such matters can be corrected.

Life Insurance Business Growing With New Policies

Appleton insurance men claim they know the answer to the old query: Why do old men play golf? It's because they invested in life insurance when they were young, they say.

But Appleton insurance men who are unanimous in declaring that 1927 was a very good year, do not always sell insurance so that men may play golf. Insurance nowadays is a business proposition, a means of helping a family adjust itself if the bread winner is taken away and a means of stabilizing a man's business if he should suddenly die and a new working head take control.

The fact that business generally has been very good in Appleton and most of the Fox river valley during the past year is the reason the insurance business has been good. Men must be making money before they can spend it. In its final analysis, insurance is nothing more than an investment.

Historically, the greatest value of insurance has been to aid a family in adjusting itself during a period of readjustment following the death of the husband or father and in this connection it might be said history is repeating itself—only more so in recent years.

Another reason for greater insurance sales is the desire of men to create a life insurance estate. Young married men with education, promise and ambition have taken out insurance to guarantee the completion of plans and the discharge of obligations which without life insurance cannot be consummated if the time is cut short by early death.

Still another reason for insurance sales is that commercial life insurance has arisen in connection with the protection of some specific business enterprises. The "man brain" organization, buys, finances, and sells. Commercial life insurance, also known as partnership insurance or corporation insurance, serves as a shock absorber when a crisis threatens a business unit and protects the most priceless asset of many firms, the human brain, which is housed in so frail a body that diet affects its efficiency and a gun prick may result in dissolution.

Insurance companies have educated people to the fact that insurance is no longer a burial fund, rather an investment.

man, Leo White and Walter Long. Louis Gasmier was the director.

HAPPILY WED, YET—

Can you imagine a happily married girl going to Reno on the "White Freedom Flyer?"

However, Marie Prevost, in her stellar portrayal in "On to Reno," boards the train for the greatest separating city in the country, despite the fact that she warmly loves her husband, portrayed by Cullen Landis. "On to Reno," James Cruze's first personally directed feature for Pathe-DeMille, which comes to the Elite theatre on Thursday and Friday, next is full of surprises, and contains a remarkable mix-up of husbands and wives and rates to an hilarious climax. Ned Sparks and Ethel Wales are in the cast of "On to Reno," which Walter Woods adapted from the story by Joe Jackson.

ment with all the salient features of a sound investment.

Insurance agents will tell that many of the large manufacturers, men who have plenty of wealth but still wish to keep it working, are investing in insurance in preference to bonds because they knew there will not be losses that come from time to time with even the best bonds. One Appleton manufacturer is said to have made the statement that he has hardly ever made any money on bonds in a long period was to be considered. As he advanced he was investing in life insurance, a more stable article in his opinion.

Creation of an estate seems to be the goal of many young men in buying insurance. An Appleton agent cites the case of one of his clients, a young man who has been too busy to watch the bond markets closely. This particular fellow has invested $1,000 in bonds paying him $60 a year in interest. The interests pays the premium on a $2,000 insurance policy and if the young man should die tomorrow he would be leaving a $3,000 estate to his beneficiaries.

Insurance which makes positive income at 60, 65 or 70 years is also gaining favor. Young men with business intuition are investing in this type insurance—they are the old men of the next 30 or 40 years who will be playing golf in their declining days rather than pining away in some city or county poor house.

Insurance companies have completed a great educational program and as long as other businesses are good insurance business will be better.

Stenographers in the office of Leo J. Toonen, county assessor of incomes, are busy this week addressing 15,000 state income tax blanks which are to be mailed to Outagamie county residents who must make reports on their incomes for the past year. Mr. Toonen has requested taxpayers not to call at his office for blanks as they are to be mailed to each individual. All blanks must be filled out and returned to Mr. Toonen not later than March 15. Those filing returns after that date will be subject to a penalty of $5, which will be collected even if no tax is to be paid.

When Mother Bakes Bread

There's an indescribably pleasant odor throughout the house.

It gives one the comfortable feeling that all is well with the world and that there's going to be something good to eat at the end of a hard day's work.

Miss Minneapolis flour contains all the nourishing part of wheat because modern methods enable the molder to remove the bran and germ, which formerly had to be thrown away.

Bread made at home, therefore, is not only delicious to the taste, but is thoroughly wholesome and strengthening.

Miss Minneapolis Flour

"Distinctly Better"

Is made of choice selected hard wheat by the most skillful methods at the mill.

It bakes in a weak, moist, and sticky dough, and can be used in any recipe that calls for flour.

It is made by millers who not only have a great skill, but that sense, "knack" or "touch" that is born of some and lacking in others.

You will like Miss Minneapolis Flour and you are entitled to the best.

TUESDAY GAME
CORNELL 27, LAWRENCE 15.

A battling game quintet of Lawrence college sophomores, outclassed from the start as far as ability was concerned, fought its way to within three baskets of Cornell college, 1927 Midwest conference champions, early in the second half of the first conference home game here.

Lawrence was decidedly off on its shooting, many shots and had hard luck on the shots that did come close. Except for the brief period at the start of the second half when Cornell had a substitute lineup on the court, the Blues appeared "tagged out" with little semblance of their usual drive. Slavic playing both guard and center, showed the best stuff of the Vikings and was the only man to really follow his shots. At guards St. Mitchell and Pierce played steady games in spite of the great offense boasted by Cornell and Pierce led the lawless play with three fingers. Rasmussen played a rugged game after the first few minutes, miffing several passes under the hoop with good chances to score and Remmel, though playing a good floor game, was off on shooting.

MUEHLBERG BIG STAR
For Cornell Muehlberg, blond Swedish center, who played a unanimous choice for all-conference center last year, was the big feature. Playing only a little more than a half, he garnered 13 points with six nifty field goals and a free try, his height and spring under the hoop making him invaluable to the team. Once he batted a jump ball into the netting from far out to the side. Again Lawrence was greatly handicapped by its inability to get the jump. Weizel, another six-footer, also played a great offensive game, scoring two ringers and two free tries, while Johnson, Bloom and Cook worked well at guards. Cornell used many subs.

Lawrence was outscored 16-3 at the half, but the game sophs outscored their classic rivals, 12-11 in the final period, too late.

SECOND PERIOD
The scoring when he made one of two tries on St. Mitchell's foul and soon after the Cornell busies had five bats at the ball on follow tries under the hoop before Lawrence could lay hands on it. Lundt, another point, scored two tries on Remmel's foul and a floater from the side by Rasmussen, knotted the count for the last time during the game. Slavic missed a try on Muehlberg's foul and both teams missed several tries for field goals under the rival hoops. Weizel made it four on a one-handed follow shot from under the hoop after about four more minutes of play and Ellis scored a point for Lawrence on Muehlberg's foul. Three shots in a row were followed by the tall men before Muehlberg scored a basket for Cornell. Ellis missed a try on Bloom's foul and after a half dozen misses on follow shots Muehlberg batted the ball in on a tie ball from a long distance. Then with the half mostly over, the Hawks opened the rally that gave them the easy lead. Bloom scored on a long arch shot and Muehlberg added a side follow. He added another from the side of the floor and Lundt scored another. Cook missed two throws on Pierce's foul and just before the half ended Rasmussen missed two baskets, first fumbling the ball while all alone under the hoop and taking a hurry shot from the same position that rolled off the rim.

Slavic tried a long shot from the side to open the second period and Remmel followed it to score neatly. He was held by Bloom on the play and added one of two free tries. The Blues were shooting long and following the tries with a defense at the center of the floor. After the Blue had missed three follow shots, Remmel missed two free throws on Johnson's foul. Slavic had hard luck on a perfect follow try. Pierce and Slavic scored in quick succession and with the score 16-10, Cornell sent in its regulars.

Weizel scored from under the hoop but Remmel added a point on Johnson's foul. Weizel did the same on Pierce's foul and Pierce dropped a ringer from straight in front of the hoop. For four minutes neither team scored and Cornell led 19-13 with eight minutes to play.

Here Lawrence was handicapped as St. Mitchell injured his hand and his six feet was relieved by Voecks, a scrappy guard, but too small to bait the Cornell giants. Muehlberg scored a point on Voecks' foul and added two quick baskets before St. Mitchell returned to the fray with a taped hand. Johnson added a point on Hotman's foul and Raymond, a sub, scored a basket. Pierce scored the final ringer of the game for Lawrence with straight long shot shortly before the gun.

Neither winner moved up the ladder as far as places are concerned but both improved their percentages to draw closer to the team just ahead in the race.

APPLETON HOCKEY TEAM PLAYS AT RHINELANDER

Three Appleton Independents, a local entry in the Fox River Valley Ice Hockey loop, will battle one of the strongest teams in the state on its own battleground Sunday afternoon, when they play Rhinelander's all-star sextet as a feature event of the first winter sports program of the city. At least two members of last year's crack Rhinelander team will not be in the lineup against Appleton as C. J. McCauley, a defenseman, is living in Wausau and is a member of the Wausau Frolics team, and D. E. Remo, a spare last year, has moved to Appleton to work. Other Rhinelander players have been worked into the place.

The game will start at 2:30 in the afternoon. The Appleton lineup will include Frank Buss and Ed Helms, wings; Jack McHugh, center; Lionel Krueger and Ira Ballheim, defenses; Andy Forster, goal; Arnold Buss and Ira Helms, subs.

Heinie Eick, St. Paul's fancy and comedy skater, is on the program just before the hockey game. The Sunday program will open at 9 a. m. with the Northern Wisconsin Rifleman's tournament.

Speed and fancy skating, and a volleyball on ice are features on the evening program.

20 APPLETON SKATERS IN GREEN BAY RACES

Twenty Appleton skaters, including the city's best and speediest bladesmen, will take part in the Northwestern Wisconsin championships Sunday afternoon at Green Bay. Percy Sharp, on the mens' title in 1926 and 1927 and he has two legs on the cup, which is given permanently after three victories. A win this year will clinch it.

Bertha Bell, entered last year for the first time, won the girls' race, from Margaret Legacy of Marinette, who won it in 1925 and 1926. Both girls are entered this year, with Miss Legacy endeavoring to avenge last year's defeat and take the prize which she was stopped from taking permanently.

COMISH REFUSES TO HELP SANGOR

Mullen Can't Hold Sangor - Taylor Battle in Illinois

Chicago (AP)—Elimination contests arranged by any promoter to determine the logical contenders for the middleweight and lightweight boxing crowns, now held by Mickey Walker and Sammy Mangell, will receive the wholehearted support of the Illinois boxing commission.

The commission reached this decision Tuesday after it had accepted forfeit checks from Tommy Walsh, manager of "Red" Union of San Francisco and Freddie Mueller of Buffalo. Walsh desires to match Unlan against Walker and Mueller with Mandell. Walsh posted two certified checks of $2,500 each to bind either or both matches.

The state board denied Promoter Jim Mullen's petition that the suspension of Joey Sangor, Milwaukee featherweight, be lifted. Mullen said he desired to match Sangor with Bud Taylor, Bantamweight champion, early in February.

Not only did the commission refuse to take favorable action on Sangor's case but indicated that the Milwaukee fighter's brother-manager, Lou, might also be suspended. Sangor's brother was ordered to appear before the commission, Jan. 24, to show cause why action should not be taken against him for making erroneous statements relative to Joey's status.

Sangor was suspended for failure to go through with a match with Benny "Kid" Carter of Los Angeles on a Christmas fund show last month. Sangor said he was suffering from an infected tooth.

The man who Sharp conquered the past two years, but who on the meet when Perez was not entered in 1925, also is back for revenge. Included in the local group for the first time is Bob Roedman, 1927 city champion, who should cut into the points in the big race.

GRANGER ROUGH CUT

GRANGER ROUGH CUT IS MADE BY THE LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

for the foil pouch, sealed in glassine. Half pound vacuum tin 49c

Sounds like tall talk for a ten-cent tobacco!

BUT... men who used to pay a quarter or more per package—men who wouldn't smoke any but imported tobacco—these same men tell us that Granger Rough Cut beats any tobacco they ever smoked for coolness, mellowness, and full rich flavor.

Well... we set out to make a pipe tobacco, and nothing else. So Granger is aged, made, cut, and packed for pipes—and pipes only! There's nothing like doing one thing and doing it well!

JACK LOCKWILL'S HELPING HAND

Jack Lockwill's roommate, Jerry Sinnott, who had been nicknamed "the Leaping Kangaroo," was behaving queerly. Though Jerry wasn't aware of it, Jack knew of two occasions when, after retiring, he had risen in the night, dressed cautiously, and stolen out of the room, to which he had returned hours later. Now he was dressing again, near the moon-bright window.

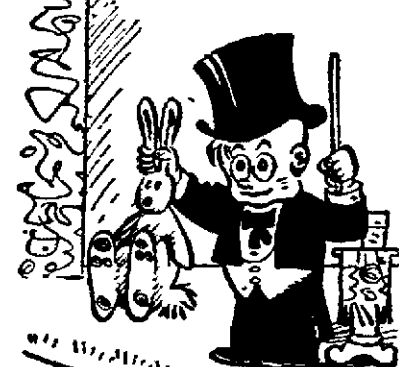

What was the fellow up to? Lockwill was about to speak when he saw something that checked him. Sinnott, fully dressed, had taken Jack's trousers off a chair.

Restraining the desire to jump out of bed, seize the fellow, and demand what he was doing. Lockwill watched him sneak out of the room. Then Jack got up, pulled down the shade and turned on a light. He found that a sum of money, slightly more than five dollars, had been taken from his pocket by Sinnott. "Why, the fellow's a thief!" muttered Jack incredulously. (To Be Continued)

SATURDAY GAMES

APPLETON AT NEEHAH

One of the closest basketball races the Fox River Valley Conference has had for several years, as far as every team instead of just two or three being in the thick of the battle is concerned, will be further scrambled Friday evening when every game is important in deciding first place. Manitowoc's first place team hits its hardest test of the year when it faces Oshkosh at the Sawdust city and it is likely that at least a triple tie for first place will be on the books when the dust settles. Oshkosh was picked as the strongest contender for the loop banner in preseason dope and after its easy win in the opener with Appleton, but Marinette's darkhorses kind of upset things. Manitowoc opened by beating West Green Bay, a strong foe, at the Bay, but the big test comes Friday. Oshkosh is playing at home, where it is an especially hard team to beat and where its forwards and center are especially adept at snaring the elusive ringer. Playing at home the Schneidermen are a slight favorite to tip Manitowoc from the loop lead, but it's a safe bet that the score will be plenty close.

MARINETTE IS GOOD

Appleton entertains that dope-setter, Marinette. The visitors whipped Oshkosh by three points while Appleton took a 14-point drubbing. Of course, Appleton lost at Oshkosh while Marinette beat the Schneidermen on the Marinette courts. With Marinette coming to Appleton the game should be a tossup, with the Orange-men having a slight edge on the ball they can play, not this year. Sheboygan still is commenting on the Appleton still in commenting on the Appleton defense of last Saturday, which held the chairs to four baskets. East Green Bay, playing on the home floor would halt West's aggression, though as in the other two games this will be a battle. Fond du Lac also is given an edge over Sheboygan because of its great play against East at Sheboygan. Appleton, East, Oshkosh and Fond should win, in which case the four will be tied for the conference lead, with Manitowoc fifth, West and Marinette sixth and Sheboygan in the cellar.

STRUTZ AT GUARD

One feature of Appleton's play was the shifting of Capt. Strutz to guard after he had played at forward for three years as a regular. He worked well and with Johnston and Schaefer held the Chairs to four markers, three of which came from midfloor. He also caged one ringer in one attempt. Berg fits in well at forward, his shooting eye having improved so that he made three ringers in four chances at the hoop, while his dribbling and floorwork was good from the start. Bowby, the other forward is showing a little better, while his eye for the hoop on free throws should net the Orange many extra points as he is fouled frequently.

Playing Neehan's giants the evening after one of its hardest conference battles in which every man will be taxed to his utmost to win and on the Neehan home floor, Appleton is expected to lose Saturday evening in the non-conference game with its old rival. However, local fans are hopeful for a slightly closer score than in the game here when the Orange was out of condition, with only one game under its belt, during the vacation and Coach Schmitt was away. Neehan's win here makes her a favorite, with her Goliath team which was able to score many points on Appleton by height alone under the hoop. A new pair of guards will face the Redmen, however, one of whom, Johnston, is as husky as any Neehanite and the other of whom, Strutz, is a cool-headed four-year vet.

Berg, who's playing bothered Jorgenson's boys the most, though he was a guard, has been moved to forward where he surely should bother his foes with his floorwork, improved since the last Neehan game. However, fans still remember last year when Appleton, tired by an overtime Friday game at Sheboygan, played extra ragged ball at Neehan Saturday evening to lose to a team which was later beaten by the French of Appleton and Conrad "Tuffy" Riedel of Little Chute, will clash. There also will be two good plainaries.

MAYESKE OF MENASHA TO GRAPPLE EARL OTTO

Johnny Mayeske of Menasha, well-known baseball player, will oppose Earl Otto, Appleton star, on the double windup wrestling card at Stephens'ville Tuesday, according to Promoter Ed Otto. Mayeske is middleweight champion of the Falcon Athletic club of Menasha, having easily whipped all boys of his weight in the organization. Otto recently beat Gale McAuley Oshkosh's best bet. In the other big attraction Ed French of Appleton and Conrad "Tuffy" Riedel of Little Chute, will clash. There also will be two good plainaries.

HAP'S BIG FIVE ROLLS RETSON-JIMOS QUINT

Hap's Big Five will roll the Retson-Jimos quint at the Lutheran Aid at Jaws Wednesday evening at 8:30. The Big Five has won two out of three matches from the R-J crew already this season.
